

Committee : United Nation General Assembly First Committee
Topic : Rivalry between United States, China and the Issue of Australian Sovereignty in the Asia
Pacific

Country : Brunei Darussalam
Delegate : University of Tanjungpura

United States and China rivalry is a complex and multifaceted geopolitical phenomenon that encompasses economic, technological, political, military, and ideological dimensions. It has been a defining feature of global geopolitics in the 21st century and has significant implications for the international order. The rivalry between United States and China can affect Australia sovereignty in multifaceted ways. Australia is caught between its economic ties with China and its security alliance with the USA. This is crucial for Australia to balancing the relationships with this two countries to protect its sovereignty while navigating global geopolitics. Australia faces challenges in managing issues, such as trade dependencies, regional security concerns, and diplomatic relations to safe its interests. This topic is important because it is impact to global economic, security, human rights and also can impact other countries.

There weren't specific international action that directly to rivalry between USA and China and its impact to Australian sovereignty. However, international actions involving USA, China, and Australia are largely occurred through diplomatic channels, regional forum, and bilateral discussions. Some of them are Regional Forums: Countries in the Asia-Pacific region, including the USA, China, and Australia, often engage in discussions and negotiations within regional forums. These include organizations such as the East Asia Summit, ASEAN Regional Forum, and Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC). Bilateral agreements and diplomatic engagements between individual countries play a significant role in managing relations. Countries may negotiate on trade, security, and other issues to maintain stability and address concerns and The USA, China, and Australia are major players in global trade. Trade agreements, negotiations, and disputes have been significant aspects of their relationships. The World Trade Organization (WTO) can be a forum for addressing trade-related issues.

Given that Brunei Darussalam has relation with these three countries it is important to balancing the relation between these three countries. Brunei Darussalam has economic ties with China that could bring investment opportunities. While security alliances with USA might provide stability in security of Brunei Darussalam. Meanwhile, Brunei Darussalam has diplomatic ties with Australia itself. Brunei Darussalam would likely advocate for United Nations to adopt policies that promote peaceful dialogue, regional stability, and respect for the sovereignty of Australia in the context of the rivalry between the USA and China. Brunei Darussalam may support initiatives that encourage diplomatic solutions to disputes, multilateral cooperation, and adherence to international law. On the other hand, Brunei Darussalam would likely oppose any United Nations policies that escalate tensions, interfere with the sovereignty oof nations, or undermine the principles of peaceful coexistence. The country may emphasize the importance of neutrality and non-interference in the nternal affairs of states while urging the international community to work towards collaborative and inclusive solutions to global challenges.
