Given by Sir Owen Seaman on the Occasion of His First Lecture in London LADIES AND GENTLEMEN It is usual on these occasions for the chairman to begin something like this The lecturer I am sure needs no introduction from me And indeed when I have been the lecturer and somebody else has been the chairman I have more than once suspected myself of being the better man of the two Of course I hope I should always have the good manners I am sure Mr Leacock has to disguise that suspicion However one has to go through these formalities and I will therefore introduce the lecturer to you My

My Discovery of England Stephen Leacock, 2016-07-02 Excerpt from the Introduction Ladies and gentlemen this is Mr Stephen Leacock Mr Leacock this is the flower of London intelligence or perhaps I should say one of the flowers the rest are coming to your other lectures In ordinary social life one stops at an introduction and does not proceed to personal details But behaviour on the platform as on the stage is seldom ordinary I will therefore tell you a thing or two about Mr Leacock In the first place by vocation he is a Professor of Political Economy and he practises humour frenzied fiction instead of frenzied finance by way of recreation There he differs a good deal from me who have to study the products of humour for my living and by way of recreation read Mr Leacock on political economy Further Mr Leacock is all British being English by birth and Canadian by residence I mention this for two reasons firstly because England and the Empire are very proud to claim him for their own and secondly because I do not wish his nationality to be confused with that of his neighbours on the other side For English and American humourists have not always seen eye to eye When we fail to appreciate their humour they say we are too dull and effete to understand it and when they do not appreciate ours they say we haven't got any

My Discovery of England Stephen Leacock, 2015-03-06 The mystery had now reached its climax First the man had been undoubtedly murdered Secondly it was absolutely certain that no conceivable person had done it It was therefore time to call in the great detective He gave one searching glance at the corpse In a moment he whipped out a microscope Ha ha he said as he picked a hair off the lapel of the dead man's coat The mystery is now solved He held up the hair Listen he said we have only to find the man who lost this hair and the criminal is in our hands The inexorable chain of logic was complete The detective set himself to the search For four days and nights he moved unobserved through the streets of New York scanning closely every face he passed looking for a man who had lost a hair On the fifth day he discovered a man disguised as a tourist his head enveloped in a steamer cap that reached below his ears The man was about to go on board the Gloritania

My Discovery of England Stephen Leacock, 2020-03-20 FOR some years past a rising tide of lecturers and literary men from England has washed upon the shores of our North American continent The purpose of each one of them is to make a new discovery of America They come over to us travelling in great simplicity and they return in the ducal suite of the Aquitania They carry away with them their impressions of America and when they reach England they sell them This export of impressions has now been going on so long that the balance of trade in impressions is all disturbed There is no doubt that the Americans and Canadians have been too generous in this matter of giving away impressions We emit them with the careless ease of a glow worm and like the glow worm ask for nothing in return But this irregular and one sided traffic has now assumed such great proportions that we are compelled to ask whether it is right to allow these people to carry away from us impressions of the very highest commercial value without giving us any pecuniary compensation whatever British lecturers have been known to land in New York pass the customs drive uptown in a closed taxi and then

forward to England from the closed taxi itself ten dollars worth of impressions of American national character I have myself seen an English literary man the biggest I believe he had at least the appearance of it sit in the corridor of a fashionable New York hotel and look gloomily into his hat and then from his very hat produce an estimate of the genius of America at twenty cents a word The nice question as to whose twenty cents that was never seems to have occurred to him My Discovery of England Stephen Leacock, 2018-08-07 My Discovery of England Large Print By Stephen Leacock The Balance of Trade in Impressions FOR some years past a rising tide of lecturers and literary men from England has washed upon the shores of our North American continent The purpose of each one of them is to make a new discovery of America They come over to us travelling in great simplicity and they return in the ducal suite of the Aquitania They carry away with them their impressions of America and when they reach England they sell them This export of impressions has now been going on so long that the balance of trade in impressions is all disturbed There is no doubt that the Americans and Canadians have been too generous in this matter of giving away impressions We emit them with the careless ease of a glow worm and like the glow worm ask for nothing in return But this irregular and one sided traffic has now assumed such great proportions that we are compelled to ask whether it is right to allow these people to carry away from us impressions of the very highest commercial value without giving us any pecuniary compensation whatever British lecturers have been known to land in New York pass the customs drive uptown in a closed taxi and then forward to England from the closed taxi itself ten dollars worth of impressions of American national character I have myself seen an English literary man the biggest I believe he had at least the appearance of it sit in the corridor of a fashionable New York hotel and look gloomily into his hat and then from his very hat produce an estimate of the genius of America at twenty cents a word The nice question as to whose twenty cents that was never seems to have occurred to him We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience My Discovery of England HardPress, Leacock Stephen 1869-1944, 2013-01 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy MY

Harper, 2023-12-18 In The Old Inns of Old England Charles G Harper invites readers on a richly illustrated journey through the picturesque landscape of England's historic inns. With a keen eye for detail, Harper employs a lyrical prose style that gracefully blends travel writing with historical narrative. Each chapter serves as both an homage and an account of the architectural beauty and regional character represented by these establishments, particularly during the late Victorian era, a time when such inns were vital social hubs amid rapid industrialization. Harper's attention to the vernacular architecture, local lore, and anecdotes brings the essence of each location to life, creating an immersive experience for the reader. Charles G. Harper, a prolific writer and illustrator, was deeply influenced by the burgeoning interest in local history and heritage preservation during the early 20th century. His extensive travels across England, paired with his background as an artist and his fascination with the interplay between culture and place, shaped his approach to documenting the inns. Harper's works often reflect his passion for English landscapes and the stories they harbor, making him an authoritative figure in the realm of travel literature. This book is a must-read for anyone with a penchant for English history, architecture, or travel literature. Harper's vivid descriptions and insights not only enrich the reader's appreciation for these historical inns but also offer a nostalgic glimpse into the social fabric of England's past. Whether you are an armchair traveler or planning an exploration of the English countryside, The Old Inns of Old England will undoubtedly inspire wanderlust and curiosity.

Australia: Governors' despatches to and from England (26 v.), 1923 Made-in-Canada Humour Beverly J.

Rasporich, 2015-09-15 Made in Canada Humour is an interdisciplinary survey and analysis of Canadian humour and humorists in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The book focuses on a variety of genres. It includes celebrated Canadian writers and poets with ironic and satiric perspectives, oral storytellers of tall tales in the country and the city, newspaper print humorists, representative national and regional cartoonists and comedians of stage, radio, and television. The humour gives voice to Canadian values and experiences and consequently techniques and styles of humour particular to the country. While a persistent comic theme has been joking at the expense of the United States, both countries have influenced one another's humour. Canada's unique humorous tradition also reflects its emergence from a colonial country to a postcolonial and postmodern nation with contemporary humour that addresses gender and racial issues.
