The Multiverse as Theory in Postmodern Speculative Fictional Narratives

Angélica Cabrera Torrecilla,Francisco Sáez de Adana,2024-11-15 The Multiverse as Theory in Postmodern Speculative Fictional Narratives considers the concept of the multiverse beyond the immediacy of being merely an excuse or scenario for the development of stories instead positioning the multiverse as a theoretical method in which speculative fiction narratives can explore diverse issues to bridge ideas across cultural social and philosophical analysis Taking a cross cultural approach the book centres around the critical engagements that literary and media texts have with the representations of the multiverse beyond considering this subject as a mere rhetorical flourish or a passing fad A diverse and international team of authors engage with the multiverse from the point of view of other worlds understanding it not as the appearance of another independent world but as the collision of two or more different worlds into one of them From this key finding the multiverse encourages us to pay attention to the influence that fiction exerts on narratives and world building providing possible frameworks to rethink critical aspects of temporality space self society and culture in contemporary times This pioneering work will interest students and scholars working in the areas of media and cultural studies comparative literature popular culture studies speculative fiction and transmedia studies

The Narrator Sylvie Patron, 2023 The narrator the answer to the question who speaks in the text is a commonly used notion in teaching literature and in literary criticism even though it is the object of an ongoing debate in narrative theory Do all fictional narratives have a narrator or only some of them Can narratives thus be narratorless This question divides communicational theories based on the communication between real or fictional narrator and narratee and noncommunicational or poetic theories which aim to rehabilitate the function of the author as the creator of the fictional narrative Clarifying the notion of the narrator requires a historical and epistemological approach focused on the opposition between communicational theories of narrative in general and noncommunicational or poetic theories of the fictional narrative in particular The Narrator offers an original and critical synthesis of the problem of the narrator in the work of narratologists and other theoreticians of narrative communication from the French Czech German and American traditions and in representations of the noncommunicational theories of fictional narrative Sylvie Patron provides linguistic and pragmatic tools for interrogating the concept of the narrator based on the idea that fictional narrative has the power to signal by specific linguistic marks that the reader must construct a narrator when these marks are missing the reader is able to perceive other forms and other narrative effects specially sought after by certain authors

Chinua Achebe and the Igbo-African World Chima J. Korie, Ijeoma C. Nwajiaku, 2022-04-12 Chinua Achebe and the Igbo African World Between Fiction Fact and Historical Representation explores Chinua Achebe's literary works and how they communicated the Igbo African world to readers. Engaging in the politics of representation, Achebe sought to demystify deterministic views of race and cultural ethnocentrism. While his books and commentaries have been very influential in shaping a unique and multifaceted view of the African world, some scholars have challenged Achebe's representations of historical reality. Through in-depth analyses of his writing, contributors examine the interpretations Achebe imposed on African culture and history in his texts. The chapters cover Achebe's engagement with critical issues like historical representation, gender relations, and indigenous political institutions in a changing society. Throughout, contributors present new ways for understanding Achebe's literary works and show how his work draws from African historical reality and identity while challenging Western epistemological hegemony.
