The Art and Science of Filler Injection Giwoong Hong, Seungmin Oh, Bongcheol Kim, Yongwoo Lee, 2020-02-27 This highly illustrated book describes how to perform dermal filler procedures in a way that simultaneously takes into account esthetic and safety aspects in order to achieve optimal outcomes in individual patients After discussion of filler materials and design considerations the relevant basic and clinical anatomy is described drawing on cadaveric examinations and imaging in living subjects Step by step instruction is then provided on how to identify a safe injection plane and on injection using the pinch technique The coverage includes guidance on injection procedures specific to different sites A thorough and systemic description of potential side effects of filler injection and the management of complications is also presented The Art and Science of Filler Injection equips the reader with a sound knowledge of all aspects relevant to the achievement of pleasing esthetic results without side effects and will be of value for practitioners at all levels of experience

Fillers Brigitte Pakendorf, Françoise Rose, 2025-07-04 Fillers are non silent linguistic devices used in disfluencies to gain time while searching for words In addition they are frequently used intentionally to avoid words for reasons of politeness conspirational motivations or rhetorical purposes Two syntactically distinct types of conventionalized fillers can be distinguished placeholders and hesitatives also called hesitators Placeholders are referential and morphosyntactically integrated while hesitatives are neither Strikingly even though fillers are cross linguistically widespread dedicated studies of such items in particular languages are still largely lacking This collective volume comprises in depth descriptions of conventionalized fillers in a substantial variety of languages from Eurasia Papunesia Australia and the Americas hoping to stimulate typological research on fillers both hesitatives and placeholders The book aims to contribute to a better visibility of the topic among general linguists to make data and analyses accessible that will be useful for further typological studies on the topic and to provide models for descriptive linguists The introductory chapter discusses issues emerging from the previous literature and offers a new typology of fillers It also highlights the major findings of the eleven remaining chapters Each of these contains a detailed and typologically informed analysis of fillers in one or several underdescribed languages based on corpora of natural speech and focusing on lexical fillers rather than on phenomena below the word level phonetic lengthening truncation or above the word level such as idioms and discourse markers like you know or rhetorical questions like what's the word for that The chapters cover a large amount of diversity both in terms of languages and with respect to the type of filler They focus on i the criteria for identification of the various types of fillers and the terminology used keeping in mind that the domain is still largely under construction ii a detailed analysis in terms of morphosyntactic distribution and if possible iii frequency in speech and iv some reflection on the diachronic development of these disfluency markers GB, GB/T, GBT Chinese Standard(English-translated version) - Catalog002

Verbmobil: Foundations of Speech-to-Speech Translation Wolfgang Wahlster, 2000-07-31 Verbmobil is the result of eight years of intensive research in a large speech to speech translation project executed by a consortium comprising nineteen academic and four industrial partners The system that was developed by more than 100 researchers and engineers handles dialogs in three business oriented domains with translation between three languages German English and Japanese Verbmobil deals with spontaneous speech which includes realistic repair phenomena and uses deep semantic analysis to recognize a speaker's slips and to translate what he tried to say rather than what he actually said This book gives the first comprehensive overview of the results of this unique and seminal project in human language technology Contributions by leading scientists in speech and language technology look at the component technologies that make Verbmobil the most advanced speech to speech translation system worldwide and a landmark project in the history of natural language processing

The Engineering Index Annual for ..., 1919 Since its creation in 1884 Engineering Index has covered virtually every major engineering innovation from around the world It serves as the historical record of virtually every major engineering innovation of the 20th century Recent content is a vital resource for current awareness new production information technological forecasting and competitive intelligence The world's most comprehensive interdisciplinary engineering database Engineering Index contains over 10.7 million records Each year over 500,000 new abstracts are added from over 5,000 scholarly journals trade magazines and conference proceedings Coverage spans over 175 engineering disciplines from over 80 countries Updated weekly

Fillers, Pauses and Placeholders Nino Amiridze, Boyd H. Davis, Margaret MacLagan, 2010 Fillers are items that speakers insert in spontaneous speech as a repair strategy Types of fillers include hesitation markers and placeholders Both are used to fill pauses that arise during planning problems or in lexical retrieval failure However while hesitation markers may not bear any resemblance to lexical items they replace placeholders typically share some morphosyntactic properties with the target form Additionally fillers can function as a pragmatic tool in order to replace lexical items that the speaker wants to avoid mentioning for some reason The present volume is the first collection on the topic of fillers and will be a useful reference work for future investigations on the topic It consists of typological surveys and in depth studies exploring the form and use of fillers across languages and sections of different populations including cognitively impaired speakers The volume will be interesting to typologists and linguists working in discourse studies
