Social Innovations in the Urban Context Taco Brandsen, Sandro Cattacin, Adalbert Evers, Annette Zimmer, 2016-04-05 This book addresses the practice of social innovation which is currently very much in the public eye New ideas and approaches are needed to tackle the severe and wicked problems with which contemporary societies are struggling Especially in times of economic crisis social innovation is regarded as one of the crucial elements needed to move forward Our knowledge of its dynamics has significantly progressed thanks to an abundance of studies on social innovation both general and sector specific However despite the valuable research conducted over the past years the systematic analysis of social innovation is still contested and incomplete The questions asked in the book will be the following 1 What is the nature of social innovations 2 What patterns can be identified in social innovations emerging at the local level 3 How is the emergence and spread of social innovations related to urban governance More precisely which conditions and arrangements facilitate and hinders social innovation We explore these questions using different types of data and methods and studying different contexts In particular we focus on innovations that aim at solving problems of the young unemployed single parents and migrants This analysis is based on original research carried out in the period 2010-2013 in the framework of a European project with a specific empirical research strategy Research was carried out in 20 cities in 10 different European countries

The Difference that Gender Makes to International Peace and Security Sara E. Davies, Nicole George, Jacqui True, 2018-10-29 Fifteen years after the adoption of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 which establishes the Women Peace and Security agenda there is now a need to assess the impacts of gender equality efforts and to understand why and how gender equality reforms have advanced to the extent that they have This book examines how international peace and security is re envisioned from a gender perspective by mostly focusing on the nuances presented by the Asia Pacific region It argues that despite the diversity of political socio cultural and economic systems in the Asia Pacific women and girls in the region continue to experience similar forms of insecurities Several countries in the Asia Pacific have demonstrated relative peace and stability In addition women s leadership and participation in peacebuilding are and continue to be increasingly recognized in the region too However as the chapters in this book demonstrate applying a critical gender analysis allows for the interrogation of veneers of political order which can then mask or normalise everyday gendered insecurities The analysis of country cases such as Myanmar Cambodia and Fiji underscores a rethinking of the political order in the Asia Pacific which leaves existing gender inequalities intact The chapters in this book were originally published in a special issue in the International Feminist Journal of Politics

Martin, 2024-09-10 Solar energy is emerging as the world's largest growing source of power In recent years its rollout and growth have produced effects far beyond electricity generation including a series of cognate challenges and conflicts in diverse geographies of energy transition Geographies of Solar Energy Transitions focuses on how solar energy governance both state based regulations and more market driven modes of governance is evolving to address these conflicts in diverse empirical settings Chapters and case studies by leading energy scholars explore various issues such as formulating new place specific solar energy visions and strategies financing specific deployment scales expanding or replacing electricity infrastructure accessing land resolving conflicts surrounding competing land uses incorporating charging technologies for transport and storage adopting flexible energy production consumption relationships displacing fossil fuel energy production with renewables enabling new energy ownership models and addressing the many environmental and social injustices across the value chain of solar expansion including upstream extractivism and downstream waste Scholarship typically frames these challenges as tangential to the governance of solar energy transitions By placing them front and centre the book draws necessary attention to the many wider changes in society that are continuously developing due to the worldwide adoption of solar power Praise for Geographies of Solar Energy Transitions This excellent book vividly demonstrates that whilst a PV panel is a standard thing pretty much everything else about solar energy can be different Ask how why and for whom and geography in many dimensions really does matter to solar energy transitions Gordon Walker Lancaster University This volume offers a unique and pioneering knowledge resource underpinned by comprehensive and nuanced insights into the emergent spatial and socio economic features of the unfolding solar energy revolution A must read for researchers and practitioners interested in understanding the diverse forms of solar power governance and development across the world Stefan Bouzarovski The University of Manchester The Walls around Opportunity Gary Orfield, 2024-04-16 The case for race conscious education policy In our unequal society families of color fully share the dream of college but their children often attend schools that do not prepare them and the higher education system gives the best opportunities to the most privileged Students of color hope for college but often face a dead end For many young people racial inequality puts them at a disadvantage from early childhood The Walls around Opportunity argues that colorblind policies have made college inaccessible to a large share of students of color and reveals how policies that acknowledge racial inequalities and set racial equality goals can succeed where colorblindness has failed Gary Orfield paints a troubling portrait of American higher education explaining how profound racial gaps imbedded in virtually every stage of our children s lives pose a major threat to communities of color and the nation He describes how the 1960s and early 1970s was the only period in history to witness sustained efforts at racial equity in higher education and how the Reagan era ushered in today s colorblind policies which ignore the realities of color inequality Orfield shows how this misguided policy has resegregated public schools exacerbated inequalities in college preparation denied needed financial aid to families and led to huge price increases over decades that have seen little real gain in income for most Americans Now with a new afterword that discusses the 2023 Supreme Court decision to outlaw affirmative action in college admissions this timely and urgent book shows that the court s colorblind ruling is unworkable in a society where every aspect of opportunity and preparation is linked to race and reveals the gaps in the opportunity pipeline while exploring the best ways to address them in light of this decision

Oil and Development in Ghana Nathan Andrews,Pius Siakwah,2020-11-09 This book gives a comprehensive overview of Ghana s hydrocarbon economy using actor network and assemblage theories to contest the methodological nationalism of mainstream accounts of the resource curse in resource rich countries Drawing upon recent field research focused on Ghana s oil and gas sector and utilizing the theoretical framework of actor network theory the authors contend that there is an assemblage of political economic social and environmental networks processes actions actors and structures of power that coalesce to determine the extent to which the country s hydrocarbon resources could be regarded as a curse or blessing This framing facilitates a better understanding of the variety and duality of local and global forces and power structures at play in Ghana s growing hydrocarbon industry Giving a nuanced and multi perspectival analysis of the factors that underlie oil engendered development in Ghana this book will be of interest to students and scholars of African political economy development and the politics of resource extraction
