in three phases Phase 1 Initial Operating Capability IOC includes a limited user Field Test with approximately 60 battalion sized units from across all components of the Army While the ACFT is backed by thorough scientific research and has undergone several revisions there are still details that have not been finalized The ACFT requires a testing site with a two mile run course and a flat field space approximately 40 x 40 meters The field space should be grass well maintained and cut or artificial turf that is generally flat and free of debris While maintaining testing standards and requirements commanders will make adjustments for local conditions when necessary The start and finish point for the two mile run course must be in close proximity to the Leg Tuck station When test events are conducted indoors the surface must be artificial turf only Wood and rubberized surfaces are not authorized as they impact the speed of the Sprint Drag Carry When environmental conditions prohibit outdoor testing an indoor track may be used for the 2 Mile Run The Test OIC or NCOIC are responsible to inspect and certify the site and determine the number of testing lanes There should not be more than 4 Soldiers per testing group for the SPT HRP and SDC The OIC or NCOIC must add additional lanes or move Soldiers to a later testing session to ensure no more than 4 Soldiers per testing group Concerns related to Soldiers graders or commanders will be addressed prior to test day The number of lanes varies by number of Soldiers testing A 16 lane ACFT site will have the following ACFT specific test equipment requirements 16 hexagon trap bars 60 pounds each with a set of locking collars While all NSN approved hexagon bars must weigh 60 pounds there is always a small manufacturer s production tolerance The approved weight tolerance for the hexagon bar is 2 pounds 58 62 pounds Weight tolerance for the hexagon bar and therefore the 3 Repetition Maximum Deadlift does not include the collars On average hexagon bar collars weigh 2 0 pounds per pair and are considered incidental to the total weight of the MDL weight Approximately 3 000 lbs of bumper plates 16 x 10 lb medicine ball 16 x nylon sled with pull straps 32 x 40 lb kettle bells Permanent or mobile pull up bars 16 x pull up bars at approximately 7 5 feet off the ground with step ups for shorter Soldiers Common unit equipment for set up and grading 16 stop watches 8 x 25m tape measures 8 x wooden or PVC marking sticks for the SPT One stick for every two lanes 70 x 18 traffic cones 50 field dome cones A soft flat dry test area approximately 40m x 40m on grass or artificial turf half of a soccer or football field A site that is free of any significant hazards A preparation area can be same as briefing area to conduct Preparation Drill A generally flat measured running course with a solid improved surface that is not more than 3 percent uphill grade and has no overall decline start and finish must be at the same altitude

Protein Structure Prediction Anna Tramontano, 2006-02-20 While most textbooks on bioinformatics focus on genetic algorithms and treat protein structure prediction only superficially this course book assumes a novel and unique focus Adopting a didactic approach the author explains all the current methods in terms of their reliability limitations and user friendliness She provides practical examples to help first time users become familiar with the possibilities and pitfalls of computer based structure prediction making this a must have for students and researchers

Introduction to Protein Structure Prediction Huzefa Rangwala, George

Karypis,2011-03-16 A look at the methods and algorithms used to predict protein structure A thorough knowledge of the function and structure of proteins is critical for the advancement of biology and the life sciences as well as the development of better drugs higher yield crops and even synthetic bio fuels To that end this reference sheds light on the methods used for protein structure prediction and reveals the key applications of modeled structures This indispensable book covers the applications of modeled protein structures and unravels the relationship between pure sequence information and three dimensional structure which continues to be one of the greatest challenges in molecular biology With this resource readers will find an all encompassing examination of the problems methods tools servers databases and applications of protein structure prediction and they will acquire unique insight into the future applications of the modeled protein structures The book begins with a thorough introduction to the protein structure prediction problem and is divided into four themes a background on structure prediction the prediction of structural elements tertiary structure prediction and functional insights Within those four sections the following topics are covered Databases and resources that are commonly used for protein structure prediction The structure prediction flagship assessment CASP and the protein structure initiative PSI Definitions of recurring substructures and the computational approaches used for solving sequence problems Difficulties with contact map prediction and how sophisticated machine learning methods can solve those problems Structure prediction methods that rely on homology modeling threading and fragment assembly Hybrid methods that achieve high resolution protein structures Parts of the protein structure that may be conserved and used to interact with other biomolecules How the loop prediction problem can be used for refinement of the modeled structures The computational model that detects the differences between protein structure and its modeled mutant Whether working in the field of bioinformatics or molecular biology research or taking courses in protein modeling readers will find the content in this book invaluable Collaborative Networks and Their Breeding Environments Luis M. Camarinha-Matos,Hamideh Afsarmanesh,Angel Ortiz,2006-03-09 Progress in collaborative networks continues showing a growing number of manifestations and has led to the acceptance of Collaborative Networks CN as a new scientific discipline Contributions to CN coming from multiple reference disciplines has been extensively investigated In fact developments in CN have benefited from contributions of multiple areas namely computer science computer engineering communications and networking management economy social sciences law and ethics etc Furthermore some theories and paradigms defined elsewhere have been suggested by several research groups as promising tools to help define and characterize emerging collaborative organizational forms Although still at the beginning of a long way to go there is a growing awareness in the research and academic world for the need to establish a stronger theoretical foundation for this new discipline and a number of recent works are contributing to this goal From a utilitarian perspective agility has been pointed out as one of the most appealing characteristics of collaborative networks to face the challenges of a fast changing socio economic context However during the last years it became more evident that finding the right partners and establishing the necessary preconditions for starting an effective collaboration process are both costly and time consuming activities and therefore an inhibitor of the aimed agility Among others obstacles include lack of information e g non availability of catalogs with normalized profiles of organizations and lack of preparedness of organizations to join the collaborative process Overcoming the mismatches resulting from the heterogeneity of potential partners e g differences in infrastructures corporate culture methods of work and business practices requires considerable investment Building trust a pre requisite for any effective collaboration is not straight forward and requires time Therefore the effective creation of truly dynamic collaborative networks requires a proper context in which potential members are prepared to rapidly get engaged in collaborative processes The concept of breeding environment has thus emerged as an important facilitator for wider dissemination of collaborative networks and their practical materialization The PRO VE 05 held in Valencia Spain continues the 6th event in a series of successful working conferences on virtual enterprises This book includes selected papers from that conference and should become a valuable tool to all of those interested in the advances and challenges of collaborative networks
