Learning in the Museum George E. Hein, 2002-09-11 Learning in the Museum examines major issues and shows how research in visitor studies and the philosophy of education can be applied to facilitate a meaningful educational experience in museums Hein combines a brief history of education in public museums with a rigorous examination of how the educational theories of Dewey Piaget Vygotsky and subsequent theorists relate to learning in the museum Surveying a wide range of research methods employed in visitor studies is illustrated with examples taken from museums around the world Hein explores how visitors can best learn from exhibitions which are physically socially and intellectually accessible to every single visitor He shows how museums can adapt to create this kind of environment to provide what he calls the constructivist museum Providing essential theoretical analysis for students this volume also serves as a practical guide for all museum professionals on how to adapt their museums to maximize the educational experience of every visitor Progressive

Museum Practice George E Hein, 2016-06-16 Preeminent museum education theorist George E Hein explores the work philosophy and impact of educational reformer John Dewey and his importance for museums Hein traces current practice in museum education to Dewey's early 20th century ideas about education democracy and progress toward improving society and in so doing provides a rare history of museum education as a profession Giving special attention to the progressive individuals and institutions who followed Dewey in developing the foundations for the experiential learning that is considered best practice today Hein demonstrates a parallel between contemporary theories about education and socio political progress and specifically the significance of museums for sustaining and advancing a democratic society Socializing Art Museums

Alejandra Alonso Tak, Ángel Pazos-López, 2020-08-24 Art museums today face the challenge of opening themselves up as institutions to a changing society This publication offers new perspectives on museological trends that are developing in various countries and cultures Through increasingly flexible inclusive and unexpected museum typologies institutions aim to give their visitors greater access to art The essays define the role of the museum as a medium of social change as a protagonist in an education process and as a technologically innovative platform Art historians but also practitioners from the museum world including curators architects and psychologists examine what is expected of art museums using case studies and against the background of the humanities and social sciences Interpreting Historic House Museums

Jessica Foy Donnelly, 2002-11-23 Times are changing at historic house museums and no one is more aware of this than the fourteen contributors to Interpreting Historic House Museums These respected museum professionals consider the history of house museums and the need to look at familiar issues from new perspectives and using new methods If your site isn't using a comprehensive interpretive plan how can you create one While doing so how do you address contemporary issues like race and gender Don't forget the physical either does your property need a landscape plan as well as a furnishings plan And when your visitors arrive to see all your hard work how accessible is your property If the answer is not very what can and should you be doing to address that Once inside how good are your tours and guides and does your furnishings plan allow visitors to maximize their experiences in areas without guides Interpreting Historic House Museums captures the big picture and the important details Its discussion of contemporary issues and successful programs its practical guidelines and information up to date references and lively illustrations will make it useful and relevant for both students and practicing professionals
