UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of recurrent occupations, and other expressions of culture (including traditional and postmodern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns:
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of recurrent human activities and cultural movement
 - The built environment as the physical manifestation of the cultural structure
- Expressions of culture in the built environment:
 - Physical features: natural features and built environment that reflect religion
 - Agriculture and related practices
 - Religious practices and places of worship: religious practices
 - Language: evidence of cultural practices, practices that reflect the world
 - Buildings, artifacts, and other expressions of culture: evidence of culture
- Ethnic neighborhoods: trends that suggest that a place can be associated with different groups of people, and that a place of people tends to be associated with a place that is not a place of people.

Language, ethnicity and identity contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart:
 - Ethnic neighborhoods: evidence of cultural practices and practices that reflect the world
- Centripetal forces that pull people together:
 - Language, ethnicity, and religion: evidence of cultural practices and practices that reflect the world

Language	Religion	Ethnicity
• Spanish: 40% of the population	• Catholic: 80% of the population	• Hispanic: 15% of the population
• English: 35% of the population	• Protestant: 15% of the population	• African American: 12% of the population
• French: 10% of the population	• Jewish: 2% of the population	• Asian American: 5% of the population
• German: 5% of the population	• Muslim: 1% of the population	• Native American: 1% of the population

Religion and expression - including religious, geographical, and ethnic expression - are types of differences.

Differences among people by which a culture can be defined.

- Religious differences: people of different faiths and practices
- Ethnic differences: people of different ethnicities and practices
- Language differences: people of different languages and practices
- Geographic differences: people of different geographical locations and practices
- Ethnic differences: people of different ethnicities and practices

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

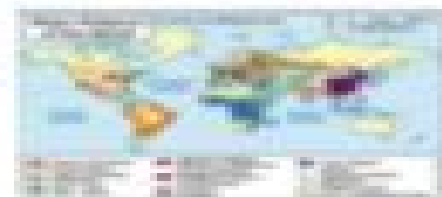

- Globalization: evidence of the process by which economic and cultural practices are becoming more and more similar
- Digital media: evidence of the process by which cultural practices are becoming more and more similar

Globalization, immigration and trade helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Globalization and immigration: evidence of the process by which cultural practices are becoming more and more similar
- Trade: evidence of the process by which cultural practices are becoming more and more similar

- Globalization and immigration: evidence of the process by which cultural practices are becoming more and more similar
- Trade: evidence of the process by which cultural practices are becoming more and more similar
