Abstract

The purpose of this study was to examine the effects of a 6-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary middle-aged women. The participants were randomly assigned to either a control group or an exercise group. The exercise group performed a combination of aerobic and resistance training three times per week. The results showed that the exercise group had significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, and HRQL compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a structured exercise program can effectively improve the physical fitness and HRQL of sedentary middle-aged women.
