Wals, Birgitte Bjønness, Astrid Sinnes, Ingrid Eikeland, 2024-06-22 In response to urgent global sustainability challenges Education for Sustainable Development ESD and Global Citizenship Education have been prioritized in the United Nations Agenda 2030 under SDG 4.7 There is a growing awareness that treating concepts such as global citizenship sustainable development climate urgency and health and well being as separate subjects or topics to be added to a curriculum is ineffective as they are highly interconnected Additionally this approach is problematic as schools already have an overcrowded curriculum This edited volume brings together a range of scholars and reflective practitioners from across the globe who are investigating and enacting a whole school approach WSA in education for sustainability While the WSA and related approaches such as those advocated by EcoSchools are becoming more popular there is a lack of understanding of their underlying principles and the different manifestations in diverging socio cultural contexts at different educational levels This collection of chapters provides a deeper understanding of the WSA while also addressing its effectiveness possibilities for upscaling professional development needs for WSA practitioners interlinkages with more conventional curriculum requirements expectations of students and parents and more This is an open access book purchase for every aspiring secondary school teacher Thomas Cook Overseas Timetable ,1986-11 Comparative Education for Global Citizenship, Peace and Shared Living through uBuntu ,2022-06-08 There is a dire need today to create spaces in which people can make meaning of their existence in the world abiding by cultural frameworks and practices that acknowledge and validate a meaningful existence for all People are not just isolated individuals but are connected in diverse ways with other persons within our natural and social environment which is part of the whole universe The African philosophy of uBuntu or humaneness is re emerging for its timely relevance and potential as indispensable in our quest for global citizenship peace and mutual understanding in securing sustainable human development in the broader ecosystem Comparative educationists have the challenge to devise theoretical frameworks epistemological and pedagogical constructs as well as pragmatic useful and effective ways of promoting the virtues of compassion and recognition of our common humanity in eliminating the ills of domination and control that are guided by greed hatred jealousy and intolerance Comparative Education for Global Citizenship Peace and Shared Living through Ubuntu paves the way for a better understanding of the critical importance of the collective search and endeavor towards achieving the virtues of nonviolence peace shared values of living together global citizenship improved quality of life for all and a better appreciation of the positive implications of interdependence Research on Teaching Global Issues John P. Myers,2020-06-01 This edited book is the first full length volume exclusively devoted to new research on the challenges and practices of teaching global issues It addresses the ways that schools can and do address young people s interest and activism in contemporary global issues facing the world Many young people today are passionate about issues such as climate change world poverty and human rights but have few opportunities in schools to study such issues in depth This book draws on new research to provide a deeper understanding and examples of how global issues are taught in schools The book is organized in two sections 1 contexts and policies in which global issues are taught and learned and 2 case studies of teaching and learning global issues in schools The central thesis is that global issues are an essential feature of democracy and social action in a world caught in the thrall of globalization Schools can no longer afford to ignore teaching about issues impacting across the world if they intend to keep young people engaged in learning and want them to make their own communities and the greater world better places for all Electrocatalysis in Fuel Cells Minhua Shao,2018-09-28 This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue Electrocatalysis in Fuel Cells that was published in Catalysts Optical and Electrochemical Biosensing Junjie Zhu,Renyun Zhang,Tingting Zheng,Cheng Ma,2022-09-27 The transduction of unreadable chemical biological components to readable optical or electrochemical signals utilizing different biosensing technologies is one of the important pathways of understanding the principles of nature To achieve this ambitious goal many biosensors have been developed to obtain useful information from complex systems e g cells tissues and humans ever since the first glucose biosensor was invented in 1967 Nowadays biosensors are spread all over every branch of frontier science ranging from fundamental measurement science to advanced artificial intelligence technology Although many transduction technologies are available so far optical and electronic signals are still two of the most commonly used techniques as the detectable outputs for biosensors Taking advantage of the development of additive manufacturing techniques such as 3D printing and the improved understanding of the biomolecules optical and electrochemical biosensing technologies have also been developed on their sensitivity selectivity and speed In view of the fast development in the area we propose a Research Topic focused on the recent development of optical and electrochemical biosensing The topics of the Research Topic cover various optical and electrochemical biosensors which potentially promote the revolution of modern measurement techniques Notably this issue will not only cover the topics in individually used optical or electrochemical biosensors but also receive interconnection techniques between optical and electrochemical signals We welcome submissions in the following themes but not limited to Fundamental studies of the optical and electrochemical biosensing Optical biosensing techniques Electrochemical biosensing techniques Combined optical and electrochemical biosensors Commercializing of the optical and electrochemical biosensors In vivo and in vitro optical and electrochemical biosensing
