

Captain Cook's Landing at Botany Bay

Account of Captain James Cook

Sunday 19th April 1770

Almost a week had passed since Lieutenant Hicks shouted 'land ahoy' and furnished our discovery of the east coast of New Holland.

Since then, we have sailed the Endeavour steadily northwards, keeping land in sight all the while. We have been kept busy mapping the coastline of this new and mysterious land.

On the morning of Sunday 19th April, we reached a place of great interest. It was a wide but shallow inlet, the immediately dropped anchor off a low headland covered with sand dunes. The great number of shipwrecks caught that morning prompted me to rather uncreatively name this place 'Shipwreck Harbour'.

Around lunchtime we lifted anchor and sailed the Endeavour into the inlet. On either headland, we saw natives.

Soon after we dropped anchor again, a number of fellow sailors and myself set out in a rowboat to investigate. As we drifted toward the shore I said to sailor Isaac Smith, 'Jump out, Isaac,' thus making him the first European to set foot on the jilted east coast of New Holland. We all went followed and waded through the shallow, warm water to the shore.

We all went followed and waded through the shallow, warm water to the shore.

After they had waded across there from a group of us in a boat and the first one landing alone, they saw an old man, the other a younger fellow. We asked them why they would not accept them. Perhaps they had misunderstood what we had said. Doubtless, one of my men then went up to

Cook's Landing Botany Bay

A week, including the night, they did not even look at a number of other men they spent at us - all looking friendly. I am quite sure over their heads and shoulders.

Of course, we found only a small number of shells to communicate with the group, and returned to our boat.

It is a wonderful day. The next day the weather permitted our explorations up the east coast of the ship. We are right here!

Historical Discourse Caroline Coffin, 2009-01-01 Historical Discourse analyses the importance of the language of time cause and evaluation in both texts which students at secondary school are required to read and their own writing for assessment In contrast to studies which have denied that history has a specialised language Caroline Coffin demonstrates through a detailed study of historical texts that writing about the past requires different genres lexical and grammatical structures In this analysis language emerges as a powerful tool for making meaning in historical writing Presupposing no prior knowledge of systemic functional linguistics this insightful book will be of interest to researchers in applied linguistics and discourse analysis as well as history educators Targeting Text John Barwick, 1999 Series contains structured teaching units for nine most commonly studied text types The Discourse of History Jing Hao, J. R. Martin, 2024-05-31 Taking a Systemic Functional Linguistic perspective this book explores how language builds our knowledge about the past and gives value to historical events thereby shaping contemporary culture It brings together cutting edge research from an international team of scholars to provide a detailed study of texts from three different world languages English Spanish and Mandarin Chinese revealing how the discourse of history is constructed in these languages Each chapter provides examples and step by step analyses of how knowledge and value are constructed in history texts drawing on Systemic Functional Linguistics to develop theory and description in relation to text analysis It also makes connections with disciplinary literacy and history education showing how linguistic findings can benefit the teaching and learning of historical literacy Providing theoretical and analytical foundations for studies of the discourse of history it is essential reading for anyone interested in literacy discourse analysis and language description Engaging Students in Academic Literacies María Estela Brisk, 2014-07-25 The Common Core State Standards require schools to include writing in a variety of genres across the disciplines Engaging Students in Academic Literacies provides specific information to plan and carry out genre based writing instruction in English for K 5 students within various content areas Informed by systemic functional linguistics a theory of language IN USE in particular ways for particular audiences and social purposes it guides teachers in developing students ability to construct texts using structural and linguistic features of the written language This approach to teaching writing and academic language is effective in addressing the persistent achievement gap between ELLs and mainstream students especially in the context of current reforms in the U S Transforming systemic functional linguistics and genre theory into concrete classroom tools for designing implementing and reflecting on instruction and providing essential scaffolding for teachers to build their own knowledge of its essential elements applied to teaching the text includes strategies for apprenticing students to writing in all genres features of elementary students writing and examples of practice Example Stories Jeffrey Tucker, 1997-01-01 This study challenges the popular notion that four parables in the Gospel of Luke the Good Samaritan the Rich Fool the Rich Man and Lazarus and the Pharisee and the Toll Collector are example stories A wealth of scholars views on the example stories are scrutinized with Adolf Jnlicher s pivotal definition receiving special attention The various criteria used to distinguish between parable and example are assessed from both a literary and a rhetorical perspective in order to ascertain what if any formal features are peculiar to the example stories Tucker shows that attempts to differentiate the example stories from other narrative parables attributed to Jesus in the Synoptic Gospels are largely unsuccessful The result is that these four parables in the Gospel of Luke can be seen for what they really are Targeting

Text Katrina Wood,Sue Stubbs,2000 Re/reading the Past J. R. Martin,Ruth Wodak,2003-01-01 Re reading the Past is concerned with the discourses of history from the complementary perspectives of Critical Discourse Analysis CDA and Systemic Functional Linguistics SFL The papers in the book stress the discursive construction of the past focussing on the different social narratives which compete for official acknowledgement Issues of collective and cultural memory are addressed reflecting the linguistic turn in the Social Sciences The book covers a range of discourses interpreting texts from popular culture to academic discourse including the construction and evaluation of past events in a variety of places around the world It is especially timely in its focus on the construction of time and value in a post colonial world where history discourses are central to on going processes of reconciliation debates on war crimes and the issues of amnesty and restitution As such the book fills a significant gap in interdisciplinary debates as well as in register and genre analysis and will be of general interest to historians political scientists and discourse analysts as well as students and teachers of ESP English for Specific Purposes and EAP English for Academic Purposes Reading by Example: Valerius Maximus and the Historiography of Exempla ,2021-10-25 Long regarded as a sycophantic producer of overblown moral platitudes Valerius Maximus emerges from a series of studies as an independent thinker capable of challenging his readers through the material he has collected he makes them think about real moral dilemmas and grants to non Roman societies a remarkable equivalence to Rome Through his silences as much as his sermons he decodes the value and political system of his day Valerius is talented as a reader of others and himself was read appreciatively in the Later Empire and even more so by Christians in Medieval Europe Text and Context in Functional Linguistics Mohsen Ghadessy,1999-06-15 The shift towards a sociolinguistic approach to the analysis of language in the last few decades has necessitated new definitions for a number of concepts that linguists have taken for granted for a long time This volume attempts to demystify the important notions of text and context by providing clear definitions and examples within the assumptions of Systemic Functional SF linguistics After a discussion of the role and significance of context by three eminent SF linguists in section one the influence of context on text is dealt with in section two From Context to Language Section three From Language to Context considers textual features and their relationship to contextual factors All the contributors base their analyses on data collected from a variety of spoken and written registers of contemporary English Between History and Philosophy Paul van Els,Sarah A. genres in early China Between History and Philosophy is the first book length study in English to focus on the rhetorical functions and forms of anecdotal narratives in early China Edited by Paul van Els and Sarah A Queen this volume advances the thesis that anecdotes brief freestanding accounts of single events involving historical figures and occasionally also unnamed persons animals objects or abstractions served as an essential tool of persuasion and meaning making within larger texts Contributors to the volume analyze the use of anecdotes from the Warring States Period to the Han Dynasty including their relations to other types of narrative their circulation and reception and their central position as a mode of argumentation in a variety of historical and philosophical literary genres Election Day History Amelia

Khatri, AI, 2025-02-15 Election Day History explores the fascinating origins and evolution of election days globally revealing how historical political and social forces have shaped when and how citizens vote The book investigates why seemingly arbitrary choices like Tuesday voting in the U S are deeply rooted in a nation s history and priorities It examines the shifts in demographics technology and political ideologies that have influenced election practices over time The book progresses chronologically starting with core concepts of electoral systems and moving through key historical periods and events It analyzes changes in voting laws the impact of technological advancements and the effects of social movements on suffrage Drawing from legislative records newspapers and statistical data it offers insights into voter turnout and election outcomes Ultimately the book emphasizes the importance of understanding election day customs to appreciate the nuances of democracy and address ongoing challenges in ensuring fair and accessible elections making it invaluable for anyone interested in politics and history Between Geography and History Katherine Clarke, 2000-01-13 The late Hellenistic period witnessed the rise of an imperial power whose dominion extended across almost the whole known world The Roman empire radically affected geographical conceptions evoking new ways of describing the earth and of constructing its history In this book the writings of three literary figures of the age are explored the History of Polybius two fragmentary works of Posidonius and the universal Geography of Strabo Analysis in terms of the philosophical concepts of time and space reveals the generic fluidity of such geographical and historical works Furthermore these broadly conceived accounts are shown to be appropriate literary media for the response to Roman power They use but transform pre existing Greek traditions in order to describe the new world of Rome making them fitting products of a transitional age This book provides a new approach to Roman imperialism by considering its impact on historiography and geographical thought Paul Ricoeur's Moral

Anthropology Geoffrey Dierckxsens, 2017-12-20 Paul Ricoeur's Moral Anthropology is a guide for readers who are interested in Paul Ricoeur's thoughts on morals in general bringing together the different aspects of what Geoffrey Dierckxsens understands as Ricoeur's moral anthropology This anthropology addresses the question what it means to be human capable of participating in moral life Dierckxsens argues that Ricoeur shows that this participation implies being a self living a singular lived existence with others and being responsible in institutions of justice Through experiencing life one comes to learn taking moral decisions and the reasons for moral life The wager of Ric ur s hermeneutical approach to moral anthropology is so Dierckxsens argues to understand moral life on the basis of the interpretation of lived existence rather than on the basis of cultural or natural patterns only like many contemporary moral theories in analytical philosophy Ric ur s moral anthropology is thus particularly timely in that it offers a critical argument against contemporary moral relativism and reductionism By bringing together Ric ur s moral anthropology and recent moral theories this book offers a novel perspective on Ric ur s already well established moral theory Dierckxsens moreover offers a critical perspective by arguing that we should revisit certain moral concepts in Ric ur s moral anthropology and in contemporary moral theories in analytical philosophy He evaluates certain concepts in Ric ur s work such as the concept of universal moral norms and how it stands against cultural differences in morals He moreover interrogates certain ideas of contemporary analytical philosophy such as the idea of cultural moral relativism and whether we can find a common morality across the cultural differences By placing Ric ur s ideas on moral life within the context of the contemporary scene of moral theory this book contributes well to Studies in the Thought of Paul Ric ur

Historical literatures Noelle Gallagher, 2018-04-30 Historical literatures recovers a rich vibrant and complex tradition of Restoration and early eighteenth century English historical writing Highlighting the wide variety of historical works being printed and read in England between the years 1660 and 1740 it demonstrates that many of the genres that we now view primarily as literary verse satire and panegyric memoir scandal and chronicle were also being used to represent historical phenomena In surveying some of this period s historical literatures it argues that many satirists secret historians and memoirists made their choice of historical subject matter a topic of explicit commentary presenting themselves as historians or inscribing their works in an English historical tradition By responding to other varieties of history in this self conscious way writers like Andrew Marvell John Dryden Delarivier Manley Daniel Defoe and John Evelyn were able to pioneer influential new techniques for representing their nation s past English and Literacies Robyn Ewing, Siobhan O'Brien, Kathy Rushton, Lucy Stewart, Rachel Burke, Deb Brosseuk, 2022-02-18 English and Literacies introduces pre service teachers to the many facets of literacies and English education for primary students Text and Texture David Banks, 2004
