Retirement Planning draws on Bernard Kelly's 30 years of conversations with families who recognise that a man aged 65 has a probability of living to age 88 and a woman of the same age has a probability to reach age 91. Everyday concerns for the Four Pillars: Health, Family, Friends, Finances, and a Zest for Living are here interwoven into numerous stories containing wisdom and practical advice. You'll journey along with his innovative discoveries about natural therapies, finding stimulation in later life, the advantages of moving to a college community, developing new friends, and the mental and financial benefits of turning any hobby into a profitable hobby. You'll share the author's experiences of preparing for a successful retirement whatever that means today, including developing an urban farm on his suburban block and how you can harvest all of that knowledge for yourself, whether you have already retired or are still in late career.

The Woman who Knew Too Much Gayle Greene, 1999. This biography illuminates the life and achievements of the remarkable woman scientist who revolutionized the concept of radiation risk. In the 1950s, Alice Stewart began research that led to her discovery that fetal X-rays double a child's risk of developing cancer. Two decades later, when she was in her seventies, she again astounded the scientific world with a study showing that the U.S. nuclear weapons industry is about twenty times more dangerous than safety regulations permit. This finding put her at the center of the international controversy over radiation risk. In 1990, the New York Times called Stewart perhaps the Energy Department's most influential and feared scientific critic. The Woman Who Knew Too Much traces Stewart's life and career from her early childhood in Sheffield to her medical education at Cambridge to her research positions at Oxford University and the University of Birmingham. Gayle Greene is Professor of Women's Studies and Literature, Scripps College.
