HLP 120 - Overlooked and Left Behind: Improving the Transition from School to Work for the Majority of Young People The Stationery Office,2016 The transition from school into work is a vital point in the lives of young people Making a successful transition through a high quality and valued pathway can mean a successful career. Becoming trapped in poor quality and under valued alternatives can mean a lifetime of poverty. This report is about young people and social mobility and focuses on how to ensure that all young people are offered a high quality career path after they leave school. We have found that the current policy structure means a large number of young people do not have good options and are not supported to make a choice which works for them and is successful. An increasing number of young people leave school and go on to A Levels and university. Of the others a small minority are at risk of dropping out of education, employment or training the NEETS. Successive governments have focused on these two groups for a long time. But the majority of young people in the UK do not fall into either group. They do not go to university, they find jobs or they continue with some form of vocational education. Despite making up the majority of the emerging workforce they have received much less attention. It is these young people who are the focus of this report. The current system for young people who do not follow an academic route is complex and incoherent with confusing incentives for young people and employers. Careers advice and education are being delivered in a way which means that too many young people simply drift into further studies or their first job which often has no real prospect of progression.

Immigrant Student Achievement and Education Policy Louis Volante, Don Klinger, Ozge Bilgili, 2018-03-21. This book examines immigrant student achievement and education policy across a range of Western nations. It is divided into 3 sections. Part 1 introduces the topic of immigrant student achievement and the performance disadvantage that is consistently reported across a range of international jurisdictions. Part 2 then presents national profiles from scholars in ten countries: England, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Finland, Netherlands, Republic of Ireland, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. These educational jurisdictions were selected because they represent a range of Western nations engaged in large scale reform efforts geared towards enhancing their immigrant students achievement. Each of the national profiles provides a brief overview of the evolution of the cultural composition of their respective school aged student population, explains the trajectory of achievement results in non immigrant and immigrant student groups in relation to both national and international large scale assessment measures and discusses the effectiveness of policy responses that have been adopted to close the achievement gap between non immigrant and immigrant student populations. It also examines the relationships between education policies and immigrant student achievement and discusses how education policies have evolved across various cultural contexts. In conclusion Part 3 analyzes cross cultural approaches designed to address the performance disadvantage of immigrant students and proposes future areas of inquiry stemming from the national profiles. The book offers insights into a diverse cross section of nations and policy approaches to addressing the performance disadvantage.

Transnational Higher Education in Computing Courses Jenny Carter, Clive Rosen, 2019-09-24

There has been exponential growth in transnational education TNE in the last few years as UK universities have looked to expand their markets Recipient countries have sought short cuts to developing their higher education provision which has proved a lucrative income stream for some universities But overseas collaborations are not without risk Recipient countries can be concerned with external influence over curricula quality being diluted and higher education being infected by neo imperialism These concerns are not without foundation There are risks for providers too Reputations can be damaged if academic standards are compromised Conflicts of interest can occur between quality of provision and the pot of gold on offer

Staff can view overseas collaborations as distracting from their research and commitment to home students Computing is a particularly popular subject for TNE but critical thinking analysis independent learning and creativity can be compromised Preventing plagiarism is difficult Constant changes in technology result in constant curricula revision which causes severe problems for overseas collaborations This book focuses on TNE in the computing domain However cross cultural issues challenge TNE management and administration whatever the subject area If the ever present tensions are not continuously monitored they can quickly threaten the sustainability of the collaboration This book identifies many of the threats and some of the solutions The readership for this book is truly global Any international development officer in higher education considering an overseas collaboration will benefit from this book Any academic becoming engaged in or already involved with a TNE partnership either as provider or recipient will gain information and insight into the practice and issues Researchers in TNE will discover more lines of enquiry Students considering a course with an overseas provider or in coming to the UK to study will be better prepared thereby enabling a more fulfilling and rewarding experience Anyone who has an interest in TNE whether at the senior executive level operational level delivering programmes or as a recipient of TNE should read this book The wealth of experience gathered here will provoke questions prompt debate and offer solutions It has been written by people who know the issues bear the scars and are happy to share their knowledge It will greatly benefit future transnational collaborations

Gender and Education in England since 1770 Jane Martin, 2022-01-02 This book takes a novel approach to the topic combining biographical approaches and local history a synthesis of sociological and historical literature with new research to address a variety of themes and provide a comprehensive rounded history demonstrating the entanglement of educational experience and the influence of different modes of discrimination and prejudice Using the lens of gender Jane Martin reassesses the gendered nature of the modern history of education and provides an overview of intertwined aspects of education society politics and power Its organisation is user friendly providing accessible information with regard to chronologies of legislation and key events to reflect constancy and change whilst mapping the larger political economic social and cultural contexts making it ideal for use as a textbook or a resource for teachers and students
