The Smartphone Society Nicole Aschoff, 2020-03-10

Addresses how tech empowers community organizing and protest movements to combat the systems of capitalism and data exploitation that helped drive tech's own rise to ubiquity. Our smartphones have brought digital technology into the most intimate spheres of life. It's time to take control of them repurposing them as pathways to a democratically designed and maintained digital commons that prioritizes people over profit. Smartphones have appeared everywhere seemingly overnight since the first iPhone was released in 2007 the number of smartphone users has skyrocketed to over two billion. Smartphones have allowed users to connect worldwide in a way that was previously impossible, created communities across continents and provided platforms for global justice movements. However, the rise of smartphones has led to corporations using consumers' personal data for profit, unmonitored surveillance, and digital monopolies like Google, Facebook, and Amazon that have garnered control over our social, political, and economic landscapes. But people are using their smartphones to fight back. New modes of resistance are emerging, signaling the possibility that our pocket computers could be harnessed for the benefit of people, not profit. From helping to organize protests against the US-Mexico border wall through Twitter to being used to report police brutality through Facebook Live, smartphones open a door for collective change.

Rhetorical Speculations

Scott Sundvall, 2019-04-15. The future of writing studies is fundamentally tied to advancing technological development; writing cannot be done without a technology, and different technologies mediate writing differently. In Rhetorical Speculations, contributors engage with emerging technologies of composition through speculative modeling as a strategy for anticipatory, futural thinking for rhetoric and writing studies. Rhetoric and writing studies often engages technological shifts reactively, after the production and reception of rhetoric and writing has changed. This collection allows rhetoric and writing scholars to explore modes of critical speculation into the transformative effect of emerging technologies, particularly as a means to speculate on future shifts in the intellectual, pedagogical, and institutional frameworks of the field. In doing so, the project repositions rhetoric and writing scholars as proprietors of our technological future to come, rather than as secondary receivers, critics, and adjusters of the technological present. Major and emerging voices in the field offer a range of styles that include pragmatic, technical, and philosophical approaches to the issue of speculative rhetoric, exploring what new media writing studies could be theoretically, pedagogically, and institutionally as future technologies begin to impinge on the work of writing. Rhetorical Speculations is at the cutting edge of the subject of futures thinking and will have broad appeal to scholars of rhetoric, literacy, futures studies, and material and popular culture. Self-Representation in an Expanded Field

Ace Lehner, 2021-05-31. Defined as a self-image made with a hand-held mobile device and shared via social media platforms, the selfie has facilitated self-imaging becoming a ubiquitous part of globally networked contemporary life. Beyond this, selfies have facilitated a diversity of image-making practices and enabled otherwise representationally marginalized constituencies to insert self representations into visual culture In the Western European and North American art historical context self portraiture has been somewhat rigidly albeit obliquely defined and selfies have facilitated a shift regarding who literally holds the power to self image Like self portraits not all selfies are inherently aesthetically or conceptually rigorous or avant guard But as this project aims to do address via a variety of interdisciplinary approaches selfies have irreversibly impacted visual culture contemporary art and portraiture in particular Selfies propose new modes of self imaging forward emerging aesthetics and challenge established methods they prove that as scholars and image makers it is necessary to adapt and innovate in order to contend with the most current form of self representation to date The essays gathered herein will reveal that in our current moment it is necessary and advantageous to consider the merits and interventions of selfies and self portraiture in an expanded field of self representations We invite authors to take interdisciplinary global perspectives to investigate various sub genres aesthetic practices and lineages in which selfies intervene to enrich the discourse on self representation in the expanded field today

Narcissus in Bloom Matt Colquhoun, 2023-08-08 Narcissism is the defining pathology of the twenty-first century, but what if it is not self-obsession that defines us but a need for self transformation Narcissus in Bloom is a short history of the self portrait beginning with Renaissance painters like Albrecht Dürer Rembrandt and Caravaggio through to photographers and celebrities like Paris Hilton and Kim Kardashian Lee Friedlander and Hervé Guibert Analysing the ways that so many artists have regarded their own image how might the age of the selfie be considered as a time of transformation rather than stasis By returning to the original tale of Narcissus and the flower from which he takes his name this book offers an alternative reading of narcissism from within the midst of a moralising subgenre of books that argue our self obsession will be the death of us That may be so But what will we become after we have taken the watery track and rid ourselves of the cloistered self image given to us by late capitalism
