Dynamic and effective.

Figure 4.4 shows all the data as on the top. The figure itself offers something more interesting: profiles (stacking of the spectra) of each light source (see Table 4.4) across all the range of frequencies. It provides useful evidence to show the difference in the spectra of the two sources. When compared with Figure 4.3.10, it may be thought that the stacked spectrum structure does agree with the theoretical predictions. However, the spectra show that the spectrum A may not match, especially, with the 10.28 and 10.30 eV with the broad, significantly smaller peaks is observed. Other differences compared with the one in the right-hand side of the figure could be seen. Nevertheless, the spectra of the two sources are not identical. The different spectra of the two sources show the use of standard data sets to construct the plot, although the broad peaks are not identical.
