Robert Bergman

Gauteng Department Life Science Paper 1 March 2014:

School Leadership for Democratic Education in South Africa Tsediso Michael Makoelle, Thabo Makhalemele., Pierre du Plessis, 2021-07-29 School Leadership for Democratic Education in South Africa explores the democratization and modernization of education in South Africa analyzing the state of school leadership in South African schools from the time of the new democratic education dispensation in 1994 to the present day The book maps out what the future of education in South Africa could look like and explores the most conducive educational environments for change in South African schools It adopts a critical approach to analyzing leadership and management in the context of school governance school effectiveness teacher development multiculturalism and equity in education Contributions explore the democratization and modernization of education in South Africa through examining different perspectives achievements and challenges and also consider issues around access to technology language policy and the curriculum along with new literature on selected aspects of leadership This book will be of great interest for researchers scholars and students in the fields of educational leadership sociology of education and teacher education Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman, 2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region
