Abstract. Based on Kohlberg's stage theory, this paper reviews the gender and age differences of individuals in moral choice and moral reasoning. Most experimental study did not show significant differences in moral choices at the Kohlberg stage. However, more women have a moral preference for care in moral reasoning. Moreover, women show different moral reasoning for different contexts and give more reactions, which is more flexible and complex. Moreover, older participants placed more emphasis on the morality of justice while younger participants placed more emphasis on the morality of care. Moral reasoning reasoning can become comprehensive and complex with grade level. This paper systematically sorts out the moral differences between men and women by reviewing and summarizing previous empirical research, in order to provide some references for subsequent research. However, previous empirical studies have mostly been based on middle-class samples, so hopefully there will be experiments on a wider sample in the future.

Keywords: Moral reasoning; Moral development; Moral orientation; Gender difference.

1. Introduction

Moral reasoning is the process of making moral judgement in moral dilemma and moral orientation is moral perspective. Several studies have attempted to investigate morality starting from moral reasoning. Piaget [1] pioneered the study of moral judgement. Influenced by Piaget [2], A unified stage model including 3 unchanged and universal level (Pre-Conventional Level, Conventional Level and post-conventional) created by Kohlberg [3]. Each level divided into 2 stages (there 6 stages in total). During the growth, children's moral reasoning will follow Kohlberg model. This model is culturally universal and stage and unchanged in stage sequence. In this framework of theory, many psychologists do several pieces of research. Some of these researches were particularly focusing on gender. It is often considered that men move to a higher stage in Kohlberg's model. Some studies support the Kohlberg's model has gender difference [4-6]. However, some people question in its validity [7-11]. Because the results of their experiments showed no significant gender differences between men and women at the Kohlberg stage.

Subsequently, Gilligan [7-8] pointed out that traditional Kohlberg's measurement, which used to measure Kohlberg's stage and higher score people gained in higher stage, were biased against women. Gilligan's work [8] emphasized the difference on two moral orientations, the morality of care and the morality of justice for further explanation of gender differences. Women are generally considered to be more concerned with caring morality while men are more concerned with justice.

Based on these contradictions, this paper will make a summary of some studies about gender differences in morality from moral reasoning and moral choice and why gender has differences in these aspects. Section 2 will introduce some concept. Section 3 will review relevant literature in order to introduce experiment results on gender differences in moral reasoning and moral choice. Section 4 will suggest some reasons as to why these phenomena occur. Section 5 provides limitation and future direction.

Gender and Jewish Difference from Paul to Shakespeare Lisa Lampert, 2013-04-09 Although representations of medieval Christians and Christianity are rarely subject to the same scholarly scrutiny as those of Jews and Judaism the Christian is as constructed a term category and identity as the Jew Medieval Christian authors created complex notions of Christian identity through strategic use of representations of Others idealized Jewish patriarchs or demonized contemporary Jews Woman represented as either virgin or whore In Western thought the Christian was figured as spiritual and masculine defined in opposition to the carnal feminine and Jewish Women and Jews are not simply the Other for the Christian exegetical tradition however they also represent sources of origin as one cannot conceive of men without women or of Christianity without Judaism The bifurcated representations of Woman and Jew found in the literature of the Middle Ages and beyond reflect the uneasy figurations of women and Jews as both insiders and outsiders to Christian society Gender and Jewish Difference from Paul to Shakespeare provides the first extended examination of the linkages of gender and Jewish difference in late medieval and early modern English literature Focusing on representations of Jews and women in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales selections from medieval drama and Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice Lampert explores the ways in which medieval and early modern authors used strategies of opposition to and identification with figures of Jews and women to create individual and collective Christian identities This book shows not only how these questions are interrelated in the texts of medieval and early modern England but how they reveal the distinct yet similarly paradoxical places held by Woman and Jew within a longer tradition of Western thought that extends to the present day

Gender Roles Carole A. Beere, 1990-03-20 Beere has produced a new edition of her Women and Women's Issues A Handbook of Tests and Measurements Based largely on a search of the PsychLIT and ERIC databases from January 1978 to December 1988 the volume includes information on 211 tests and measures pertaining to gender roles and attitudes towards gender Particularly useful are chapter reviews of the literature in which the author reviews the quality of available research Recommended for college and university libraries Choice This handbook stems in part from the author's previously published Women and Women's Issues Realizing that a book published in 1979 could no longer provide researchers with the up to date information they require regarding measures to use in research Beere set out to revise and update her work In the process she soon discovered that the measures identified through her search of the literature produced since her first book was published far exceeds the number that can be realistically described in a single handbook Thus she has undertaken a two volume guide the first of which Gender Roles describes only those measures pertaining to gender roles and attitudes toward gender related issues Gender roles are broadly defined to include adults and children's gender roles gender stereotypes marital roles parental roles employee roles and multiple roles A total of 211 measures are included In addition to 67 scales still in use that were described in her earlier book Beere includes scales that are relevant have evidence of their reliability and or validity and are used in more than one published article or ERIC document If a scale does not satisfy these criteria but its development is the focus of an article or ERIC document it is included as are scales that are unusual or pertain to a topic that would otherwise receive inadequate coverage in this handbook The scale descriptions follow a standard format that includes the following information title author or authors as listed in the earliest publication mentioning the scale earliest date that the scale is mentioned in a publication profile of variable being measured type of instrument description sample items previous and appropriate subjects scoring information a description of the development of the measure information regarding reliability and validity and a listing of published studies that use the measure This important new handbook promises to make several important contributions to gender related research It will make it easier for researchers to locate quality instruments appropriate for their research discourage the proliferation of substandard or redundant measures set some minimal standards for measures used in gender role research and encourage more research regarding gender roles All social science libraries will want to find a place for it in their reference collections

International Handbook of Interpretation in Educational Research Paul Smeyers, David Bridges, Nicholas C. Burbules, Morwenna Griffiths, 2015-01-06 This handbook focuses on the often neglected dimension of interpretation in educational research It argues that all educational research is in some sense interpretive and that understanding this issue belies some usual dualisms of thought and practice such as the sharp dichotomy between qualitative and quantitative research Interpretation extends from the very framing of the research task through the sources which constitute the data the process of their recording representation and analysis to the way in which the research is finally or provisionally presented The thesis of the handbook is that interpretation cuts across the fields both philosophically organizationally and methodologically By covering a comprehensive range of research approaches and methodologies the handbook gives early career researchers what they need to know in order to decide what particular methods can offer for various educational research contexts fields An extensive overview includes concrete examples of different kinds of research not limited for example to teaching and learning examples as present in the Anglo Saxon tradition but including as well what in the German Continental tradition is labelled pädagogisch examples from child rearing and other contexts of non formal education with full description and explanation of why these were chosen in particular circumstances and reflection on the wisdom or otherwise of the choice combined in each case with consideration of the role of interpretation in the process The handbook includes examples of a large number of methods traditionally classified as qualitative interpretive and quantitative used across the area of the study of education Examples are drawn from across the globe thus exemplifying the different opportunities and constraints that educational research has to confront in different societies

Muslim Women in Austria and Germany Doing and Undoing Gender Constanze Volkmann, 2018-10-01 Constanze Volkmann develops an innovative new gender theory labeled doing and undoing gender Based on empirical findings she examines the highly debated intersection of gender and Islam The analysis of interviews with various Muslim women unravels the many different ways in which gender is done and undone Especially with regard to potential gender hierarchies the results reveal that the category gender is irrelevant to many Muslim women and is even used as a means to foster their status and power as women This book makes a substantial contribution to a differentiated social debate at eye level with Muslim women Reading with a Difference Arthur F. Marotti,1993 Reading with a Difference is a collection of eighteen essays that examines how issues of gender race and cultural identity inform texts from the seventeenth century to the present Together the contributions document recent significant shifts occurring in the theoretical approach to the texts they study and illustrate how shifts in each of these categories affect how the others are viewed The first section of this anthology explores the notion that identity particularly gender identity is a cultural construct The essays in the second section consider ways in which race and gender intersect with cultural identity and how encounters between different cultures challenge any identity constructed in isolation First published in the journal Criticism these essays offer no blueprint for reading Instead they encourage a rereading of canonical texts and a questioning of how these texts face matters of gender race and cultural identity how they respond to the differences and the incongruities within the cultures from which they arise and to which they speak BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Handbook of Motivation at School Kathryn R.
