

"...I was blown away... almost no thought required to adapt to typing on it...
From the get go, my fingers knew how to type..." —M. GARDNER

Comparable speed.

The 50-key keyboard speeds up the 20- to 30-word-per-minute typing rate made achievable using the 100-key 50-keyboard. This range is comparable to the performance of most two-handed typists, and more than sufficient to power most tasks.

Comparable skills.

The 50-key typing is fast and easy on the 50-keyboard. Once it sets your existing skills, the learning curve is very short.

An average touch typist can start the 50-key typing immediately, and will reach 20 words per minute (wpm) after less than 10 hours of use.

For a one-handed typist, learning time is the same as for two-handed typing.

Use either hand - or both.

The 50-key keyboard allows one-handed typing using either hand, with a right or left hand, just like a standard keyboard.

The 50-key typing can be controlled with or without the "master" key. Press once for one-handed typing, twice for two-handed typing.

How do I type with one-hand?

The 50-key typing on the 50-keyboard is a lot like two-handed touch typing.

1. Press the "master" key once to turn on one-handed typing (pressing twice turns it off).

2. Place your hand in the standard home row position, and touch-type in the standard way.

3. For letters of the other hand used, reach down the space bar with your thumb, and use the fingers of your typing hand to do the same movements that the other hand controls the

4. To the space bar to type space.

5. To the 50-keyboard's controller for use with the 50-key.

The industry started.

While few people started the search of the disability community for over 10 years, it's becoming a lot more common to see 50-key typing in the industry.
