Abstract: This paper presents a new approach to the problem of finding a path from a start node to a goal node in a graph. The approach is based on the use of a heuristic function to estimate the cost of a path. The heuristic function is defined as the sum of the cost of the edges in the path and the cost of the goal node. The cost of the edges is calculated using a distance metric. The cost of the goal node is calculated using a heuristic function. The heuristic function is used to select the next node to visit. The process is repeated until the goal node is reached. The algorithm is efficient and easy to implement.
