Ronald B Mitchell

Environmental Science Analogies:

Environmental Science in the Coastal Zone National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Geosciences, Environment and Resources, Commission on Geosciences, Environment, and Resources, 1994-02-01 This book assesses the dimensions of our scientific knowledge as it applies to environmental problems in the coastal zone. The volume contains 10 papers that cover different aspects of science management and public policy concerning the coastal zone. A consensus is presented on several key issues confronting science for developing a more holistic approach in managing this region's intense human activities and important natural resources. Ecosociocentrism Gopi Upreti, 2023-11-30 This book on the subject of global environmental crisis and climate change that has threatened the very existence of humankind and the living system on planet Earth claims that the current Anthropocene is the most dangerous era of environmental and ecological crisis the planet Earth has ever witnessed. This book not only insightfully reflects upon the crisis manifested by climate change, breakdown of planetary ecosystem, extinction and annihilation of millions of species, acidification of oceans, desertification of productive lands and toxic pollution, attributing to the current dominant neoliberal economic model, but also presents a new ethical development framework that recognizes and promotes the instrumental, relational and intrinsic values in the Earth system which form the basis for social and environmental sustainability. This is a useful book for all stakeholders involved in environmental protection, UN and development agencies, INGOs, civil societies, NGOs, governments, officials and professionals, media personnel, universities, faculties, students and researchers. International Politics and the Environment Ronald B Mitchell, 2010 This title provides graduate students with a sophisticated overview of this increasingly important field, outlining the causes of international environmental problems and assessing the ways in which political responses have been formulated, implemented and evaluated. Science, Democracy and Relativism Haris Shekeris, 2014-06-26 Science, Democracy and Relativism proposes and defends the thesis that scientific knowledge is produced through a process of argumentation and consensus among relevant communities of scientists and that it is disseminated to other epistemic communities according to communitarian epistemology. Such a thesis considers scientific knowledge as unashamedly relative; however, this is regarded as a good thing for democracy as it views knowledge as a matter of deliberation rather than something to be discovered. In order for democracy to flourish in modern settings where science is ever present and in order to avoid the creation of unelected and unaccountable scientific elites essentially producing state policy, it is necessary for the lay public to co-author, co-produce and co-own scientific knowledge. The book spans many disciplines in order to make its central argument, addressing topics ranging from political philosophy and theories of democracy to the public understanding of science, science education, the sociology of scientific knowledge, science policy and the closure of scientific controversies, the philosophy of science, epistemology and semantics, and finally to sustainability science. The style of the prose and of the examples and topics discussed is deliberately simple, making the volume interesting and accessible to the interested lay person A Dictionary of Human Geography Noel Castree, Alisdair Rogers, Rob Kitchin, 2013-04-25 This new dictionary provides over 2 000 clear and concise entries on human geography covering basic terms and concepts as well as biographies organisations and major periods and schools Authoritative and accessible this is a must have for every student of human geography as well as for professionals and interested members of the public Environment, Ethics, and Behavior Max H. Evolution, Time, Production and the Environment Malte Faber, John L.R. Proops, 2013-03-14 Long run interactions between the economy and the natural environment are studied from all points of view First the aims of this overview are illustrated in Part I Part II then explores and develops the concept of evolution in particular distinguishing between evolution which does not involve the emergence of novelty and evolution where novelty does occur In Part III three types of time irreversibility are developed and these concepts are used to show how time has been treated in the natural sciences also typifying various schools of economic thought Part IV is concerned with the economic modelling of these concepts It extends and adapts neo Austrian capital theory to provide a basis for the modelling of long run economy environment interactions A heuristic simulation model is described and its simulation results discussed Part V draws some lessons from the earlier discussion and analysis It also stresses the role and the importance of interdisciplinary work for the understanding of relationships between economic activity and the natural environment McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Environmental
