punctuation - correct answer writing marks that help to separate and clarify ideas. Examples are: period, comma, colon, dash, ellipsis, exclamation mark, and question mark.

participle - correct answer based on a verb form that functions as an adjective within the sentence. Present forms usually end in -ing and past forms end in -ed.

gerund - correct answer a present participle that is used as a noun. It can be the subject of a verb, the object of a verb, a predicate nominative or complement, or the object of a preposition.

infinitive - correct answer a phrase that consists normally of the word "to" followed by a verb. The phrase can act as a noun, adjective, or adverb within a sentence. Examples are to swim, to learn, and to look.

active voice - correct answer when the subject of the sentence performs the action expressed in the verb. This the preferred construction for most writing to present ideas clearly and to avoid unnecessary wordiness. An example is "The girl caught the fish."

passive voice - correct answer when the subject of the sentence receives the action. An example is "The fish was caught by the girl."

indicative verb - correct answer used to simply state a fact or opinion imperative verb - correct answer used to command or tell someone to take action. It is understood that you are the direct object. Examples are eat, sit, and be.

interrogative verb - correct answer used when the author or speaker is asking a question conditional verb - correct answer used when a situation is dependent on a particular condition. An example is "I would love to see you if you have some time available today."

subjunctive verb - correct answer shows something is contrary to fact. An example is "I wish we would have had dinner earlier."

context - correct answer words or phrases that surround another phrase and help to explain its meaning. Sometimes a word cannot be understood without the context of other words and phrases. For example: "he sunk it" could mean many things, but when
