Fibrous Proteins: Muscle and Molecular Motors John M. Squire, David A.D. Parry, 2005-08-29 Molecular Motors and Muscle is the second of a three part series on Fibrous Proteins The books are based on a very successful workshop in Alpbach Austria on the general topic of Fibrous Proteins that gave rise to the award winning issue of Journal of Structural Biology There are two major types of protein Globular proteins which are often enzymes which speed up biochemical reactions and Fibrous proteins which often have more structural roles but can also have dynamic properties Fibrous proteins are usually either elongated molecules which pack together to form long filaments as in the case of the intermediate filaments in our hair and skin and as in collagen fibrils in tendons and bones or they are globular proteins which aggregate linearly to form long filaments such as actin filaments or microtubules Fibrous proteins act as molecular scaffolds in cells they can be involved in transport of cell organelles or even on a visible scale as in our muscles They provide the supporting structures of our skeletons bones tendons cartilage and skin They define the mechanical properties of our internal hollow organs such as the intestines heart and blood vessels They are vital for life and represent a fascinating subset of the proteome Advances in Protein Chemistry is available online on ScienceDirect full text online of volumes 53 onwards Elsevier book series on ScienceDirect gives multiple users throughout an institution simultaneous online access to an important compliment to primary research Digital delivery ensures users reliable 24 hour access to the latest peer reviewed content The Elsevier book series are compiled and written by the most highly regarded authors in their fields and are selected from across the globe using Elsevier's extensive researcher network For more information about the Elsevier Book Series on ScienceDirect Program please visit <http://www.info.sciencedirect.com/bookseries> Allows a comparison to be made between unique but related structures Quality of the text and illustrations allows ready comprehension of key protein design features Identifies fibrous protein sequence features for analysis of the human genome Analyzes design principles for fibrous protein sequences thus leading potentially to development of new devices by nanofabrication Advanced Direct Injection Combustion Engine Technologies and Development H Zhao, 2009-12-18 Volume 2 of the two volume set Advanced direct injection combustion engine technologies and development investigates diesel DI combustion engines which despite their commercial success are facing ever more stringent emission legislation worldwide Direct injection diesel engines are generally more efficient and cleaner than indirect injection engines and as fuel prices continue to rise DI engines are expected to gain in popularity for automotive applications Two exclusive sections examine light duty and heavy duty diesel engines Fuel injection systems and after treatment systems for DI diesel engines are discussed The final section addresses exhaust emission control strategies including combustion diagnostics and modelling drawing on reputable diesel combustion system research and development Investigates how HSDI and DI engines can meet ever more stringent emission legislation Examines technologies for both light duty and heavy duty diesel engines Discusses exhaust emission control strategies combustion diagnostics and modelling

Muscle Contraction and Cell Motility H. Sugi, 2012-12-06 This volume intends to provide a comprehensive overview on the mechanisms of muscle contraction and non muscle cell motility at the molecular and cellular level not only for investigators in these fields but also for general readers interested in these topics A most attractive feature of various living organisms in the animal and plant kingdoms is their ability to move In spite of a great diversity in the structure and function of various motile systems it has frequently been assumed since the nineteenth century that all kinds of motility are essentially the same Based on this assumption some investigators in the nineteenth century thought that the mechanisms of motility could better be studied on primitive non muscle motile systems such as amoeboid movement rather than on highly specialized muscle cells Contrary to their expectation however the basic mechanisms of motility have been revealed solely by investigations on vertebrate skeletal muscles since a monumental discovery of Szent Gyorgyi and his coworkers in the early 1940s that muscle contraction results from the interaction between two different contractile proteins actin and myosin coupled with ATP hydrolysis

Sports Cars Illustrated ,1998-03 Boating ,2003-10 The School Executive ,1957 A Talent for Friendship John Terrell, 2015 Professor John Terrell argues that the ability to make friends is an evolved human trait not unlike our ability to walk upright on two legs or our capacity for speech and complex abstract reasoning Terrell charts how this trait has evolved by investigating two unique functions of the human brain the ability to remake the outside world to suit our collective needs and our capacity to escape into our own inner thoughts and imagine how things might and ought to be

Sliding Filament Mechanism in Muscle Contraction Haruo Sugi, 2007-04-27 Sliding Filament Mechanism in Muscle Contraction Fifty Years of Research covers the history of the sliding filament mechanism in muscle contraction from its discovery in 1954 by H E Huxley through and including modern day research Chapters include topics in dynamic X ray diffraction electron microscopy muscle mechanisms in vitro motility assay cardiac versus smooth muscle motile systems and much more and selected open access locations The different sciences furnish us with a wide variety of explanations some work at macroscopic scales some work at microscopic scales and some operate across different levels How do these different explanatory levels relate to one another and what is an explanatory level in the first place Over the last 50 years more and more philosophers both reductionists and anti reductionists no longer subscribe to the idea that the best explanation resides at the fundamental physical level New challenges arise from the success of scientific explanations employing multi level models which mix levels of explanation from distinctive differences between levels structures in biology cognitive science and social science from the apparently radical reimagining of the explanatory role of spacetime in our current best theories of fundamental physics and from the enduring mystery of how higher level explanations are possible in the first place These questions naturally connect to classic philosophical ways of thinking about the relationships between levels reduction emergence and fundamentality This volume presents a snapshot of cutting edge research on explanatory levels from their conceptual foundations to the details of how they are used in scientific practice
