Brownstone, 1996-11 Between 1892 and the early 1950s nearly fifteen million people streamed through Ellis Island in search of a new life Though it closed as a federal immigration station in 1954 the landmark island was restored and reopened in 1990 as a museum run by the National Park Service thus preserving the heritage of the more than 100 million Americans who can trace their immigrant roots there

This is the first English language anthology on the Taiwan New Cinema and its legacy. It is an exciting collection which covers all the major filmmakers from Hou Hsiao Hsien and Edward Yang to Ang Lee and more. Gathering a range of essays that analyze individual films produced since the advent of the Taiwan New Cinema in the early 1980s it aims to complement Fei Lu's Taiwan Cinema: Politics, Economics, Aesthetics translated by Chris Berry. forthcoming. Taiwan and its internationally renowned cinema are on the edge in more ways than one. For all of its history the island has been on the edge of larger geopolitical entities subjected to invasions, migrations, incursions and pressures. On the other hand as one of the Little Tiger economies of Asia it has been on the cutting edge of the Asian economic boom and of technological innovation. In recent years it has pioneered democratization of authoritarian regimes in East Asia. Voices of Italian America Martino Marazzi, 2004

Their personal stories testify to a wider collective novel focused around the myth and the dream of making America. Through their pages and their critical presentation the reader is brought to discover the literary dignity of this production clearly linked to the popular roots of nineteenth century Italian culture but at the same time confronted with the traumas and the different realities of a new society. The main themes are voiced: immigration, labor conditions, family ties, the lure and snares of the big city, its multiethnicity. BOOK JACKET Island of the Doomed Stig Dagerman, 2012

From 1910 to 1940 over half a million people sailed through the Golden Gate hoping to start a new life in America. But they did not all disembark in San Francisco; instead most were ferried across the bay to the Angel Island Immigration Station. For many this was the real gateway to the United States.

For others it was a prison and their final destination before being sent home In this landmark book historians Erika Lee and Judy Yung both descendants of immigrants detained on the island provide the first comprehensive history of the Angel Island Immigration Station Drawing on extensive new research including immigration records oral histories and inscriptions on the barrack walls the authors produce a sweeping yet intensely personal history of Chinese paper sons Japanese picture brides Korean students South Asian political activists Russian and Jewish refugees Mexican families Filipino repatriates and many others from around the world Their experiences on Angel Island reveal how America s discriminatory immigration policies changed the lives of immigrants and transformed the nation A place of heartrending history and breathtaking beauty the Angel Island Immigration Station is a National Historic Landmark and like Ellis Island it is recognized as one of the most important sites where America s immigration history was made This fascinating history is ultimately about America itself and its complicated relationship to immigration a story that continues today *Two on an island!
