Linguistics of Olfaction Łukasz Jędrzejowski,Przemysław Staniewski,2021-04-26 This volume presents novel cross linguistic insights into how olfactory experiences are expressed in typologically un related languages both from a synchronic and from a diachronic perspective It contains a general introduction to the topic and fourteen chapters based on philological investigation and thorough fieldwork data from Basque Beja Fon Formosan languages Hebrew Indo European languages Japanese Kartvelian languages Purepecha and languages of northern Vanuatu Topics discussed in the individual chapters involve inter alia lexical olfactory repertoires and naming strategies non literal meanings of olfactory expressions and their semantic change reduplication colexification mimetics and language contact The findings provide the reader with a range of fascinating facts about perception description contribute to a deeper understanding of how olfaction as an understudied sense is encoded linguistically and offer new theoretical perspectives on how some parts of our cognitive system are verbalized cross culturally This volume is highly relevant to lexical typologists historical linguists grammarians and anthropologists      Metropolitan Mosaics and Melting-Pots Adlai Murdoch,Pascale De Souza,2014-10-16 Migration is both a demographic and a cultural phenomenon As such it both reshapes the global village and subverts the all encompassing vision of the city a space split between the blending of all new cultures and the need felt by many migrants to maintain their traditions and thereby contribute to a multicultural mosaic This series of essays explores how the concepts of the melting pot and the mosaic have shaped the representation of Paris and Montreal in francophone literatures Migrant movements to these cities from the Caribbean the Maghreb Sub Saharan Africa Quebec Indochina and the Indian Ocean have produced new groups of intersecting cultures Under the dual influences of their native and host countries migrants have produced an innovative and multifaceted literature that reflects their composite world view Their writing poses pressing questions of ethnicity immigration integration and citizenship and challenges longstanding notions both of the concept of the city and of how its spaces embody and articulate Frenchness in the face of ongoing change Such shifts produce changes not only in the diasporic culture but in the national culture as well through creolization processes These shifting identities increasingly destabilize current notions of national membership and social and cultural belonging since we can no longer presume a direct correspondence between place culture language and identity They also pose new questions of national identity and difference as the immigrant presence expands and inflects the cosmopolitan pluralism of today s societies      *A new royal French grammar ...
