Dosimetry in Bioelectromagnetics Marko Markov,2017-05-23 Dosimetry refers to the calculation and assessment of the radiation dose received by the human body The proposed book will place emphasis on the existence of physical and biophysical dosimetry It will be discussed for the proper description and evaluation of the signal at the power generation system It will cover in detail 10 different parameters of EMF electromagnetism exposure such as amplitude frequency vector time of exposure orientation etc In most published papers these parameters are not well defined 17th Edition of the Spanish Society for Developmental Biology Meeting: New Trends in Developmental Biology Rosa Barrio,Sofia J. Araújo,2022-05-05 Nuclear Architecture and Dynamics Christophe Lavelle,Jean-Marc Victor,2017-10-27 Nuclear Architecture and Dynamics provides a definitive resource for bio physicists and molecular and cellular biologists whose research involves an understanding of the organization of the genome and the mechanisms of its proper reading maintenance and replication by the cell This book brings together the biochemical and physical characteristics of genome organization providing a relevant framework in which to interpret the control of gene expression and cell differentiation It includes work from a group of international experts including biologists physicists mathematicians and bioinformaticians who have come together for a comprehensive presentation of the current developments in the nuclear dynamics and architecture field The book provides the uninitiated with an entry point to a highly dynamic but complex issue and the expert with an opportunity to have a fresh look at the viewpoints advocated by researchers from different disciplines Highlights the link between the bio chemistry and the bio physics of chromatin Deciphers the complex interplay between numerous biochemical factors at task in the nucleus and the physical state of chromatin Provides a collective view of the field by a large diverse group of authors with both physics and biology backgrounds The Biochemistry of Retinoid Signaling III Mary Ann Asson-Batres,Cecile Rochette-Egly,2020-04-15 This book covers subjects that have major impacts on society such as the mechanism of maternal fetal transfer of vitamin A and the effects of alcohol on retinoic acid signaling and mammalian embryonic development There has been an awareness of the importance of consuming vitamins throughout human history but empirical studies of their physiological role and mode of action only began about 150 years ago Since then the biochemical nature of vitamin A and its active derivative retinoic acid have been identified and researchers around the globe have investigated retinoic acid s physiological function in growth processes and in maintaining life Written by leading experts this book discusses the latest findings and advances in retinoic acid research It addresses topics such as the role of retinoic acid signaling in a multitude of processes including limb heart and respiratory system development as well as its role in maintaining postnatal organ systems This book is a valuable resource for scientists involved in vitamin A retinoic acid research and readers interested in developmental biology New Advancement in Tumor Microenvironment Remodeling and Cancer Therapy Xiangsheng Zuo,Ying Shen,Yi Yao, Jiayan Chen,2024-03-18 Tumor microenvironment TME refers to the area with non malignant cells signaling molecules and blood vessels that surrounds and feeds tumor cells A tumor can change its microenvironment and TME is also known to profoundly impact the occurrence growth metastasis and therapeutic response and resistance of tumors The special paracrine characteristics microvascular system extracellular matrix components and stromal cells in TME promote local tumor immune suppression and could alter the penetration and distribution of drugs into tumor tissues Accumulating evidence demonstrates that currently available tumor therapies i e chemotherapy radiotherapy anti vascular therapy small molecule targeted therapy immune checkpoint inhibitors also in turn greatly affect the structure function and physical and chemical properties of TME leading to TME remodeling However whether and how interaction of tumor cells and TME modeling can be dissected and targeted to further understand the underlying molecular mechanisms and establish effective new tumor therapies remains elusive

In vivo Cell Biology of Cerebral Cortical Development and Its Related Neurological Disorders: Cellular Insights into Neurogenesis and Neuronal Migration Takeshi Kawauchi,Margareta Nikolić,Yoko Arai,2016-09-21 The brain consists of a complex but precisely organized neural network which provides the structural basis of higher order functions Such a complex structure originates from a simple pseudostratified neuroepithelium During the developing mammalian cerebral cortex a cohort of neural progenitors located near the ventricle differentiates into neurons and exhibits multi step modes of migration toward the pial surface Tight regulation of neurogenesis and neuronal migration is essential for the determination of the neuron number in adult brains and the proper positioning of excitatory and inhibitory neurons in a specific layer respectively In addition defects in neurogenesis and neuronal migration can cause several neurological disorders such as microcephaly periventricular heterotopia and lissencephaly Recent advances in genetic approaches to study the developing cerebral cortex as well as the use of a number of novel techniques particularly in vivo electroporation and time lapse analyses using explant slice cultures have significantly increased our understanding of cortical development These novel techniques have allowed for cell biological analyses of cerebral cortical development in vivo or ex vivo showing that many cellular events including endocytosis cell adhesion microtubule and actin cytoskeletal regulation neurotransmitter release stress response the consequence of cellular crowding physical force dynamics of transcription factors midbody release and polarity transition are required for neurogenesis and or neuronal migration The aim of this research topic is to highlight molecular and cellular mechanisms underlying cerebral cortical development and its related neurological disorders from the cell biological point of views such as cell division cell cycle regulation cytoskeletal organization cell adhesion and membrane trafficking The topic has been organized into three chapters 1 neurogenesis and cell fate determination 2 neuronal migration and 3 cortical development related neurological disorders We hope that the results and discussions contributed by all authors in this research topic will be broadly useful for further advances in basic research as well as improvements in the etiology and care of patients suffering from neurological and psychiatric disorders
