Ghetto at the Center of the World Gordon Mathews,2011-06-01 There is nowhere else in the world quite like Chungking Mansions a dilapidated seventeen story commercial and residential structure in the heart of Hong Kong s tourist district A remarkably motley group of people call the building home Pakistani phone stall operators Chinese guesthouse workers Nepalese heroin addicts Indonesian sex workers and traders and asylum seekers from all over Asia and Africa live and work there even backpacking tourists rent rooms In short it is possibly the most globalized spot on the planet But as Ghetto at the Center of the World shows us a trip to Chungking Mansions reveals a far less glamorous side of globalization A world away from the gleaming headquarters of multinational corporations Chungking Mansions is emblematic of the way globalization actually works for most of the world s people Gordon Mathews s intimate portrayal of the building s polyethnic residents lays bare their intricate connections to the international circulation of goods money and ideas We come to understand the day to day realities of globalization through the stories of entrepreneurs from Africa carting cell phones in their luggage to sell back home and temporary workers from South Asia struggling to earn money to bring to their families And we see that this so called ghetto which inspires fear in many of Hong Kong s other residents despite its low crime rate is not a place of darkness and desperation but a beacon of hope Gordon Mathews s compendium of riveting stories enthralls and instructs in equal measure making Ghetto at the Center of the World not just a fascinating tour of a singular place but also a peek into the future of life on our shrinking planet How Countries Count Crime John A. Eterno,Arvind Verma,Eli B.

Silverman,2022-09-30 This edited collection illuminates the weaknesses and strengths of crime reporting across a wide range of countries with a focus on democratic countries in which the police bear some accountability to citizens In one compendium for the first time this book documents how different countries record or fail to record crimes With chapters written by native authors who are experts on the practices of their respective countries the book explores practices in 15 different countries across the globe Organized with a parallel country by country approach the book describes and analyzes methods police use to record crimes with the awareness that the counting of crimes is not only an issue of empirical measurement but also one of social construction Crime reporting practices vary widely by country In some cases reports are not taken and in others reports are carefully based on preliminary investigations Willful manipulation of crime reports can and does occur and the book explores related factors such as political pressure personal ambition community safety and more Discussion questions at the end of each chapter help the reader evaluate the significant issues influencing each country The editors conclude by suggesting best practices for crime reporting and the collection of crime data A unique addition to this book is a foreword by Tofiq Murshudlu the Head of Drugs and Crime for the United Nations in Vienna The book is intended for a wide range of audiences including policing scholars law enforcement and community leaders and students of criminal justice Task Force Report: Organized Crim, Annotations and Consultants' Papers United States President of the United States,1967
