other organisms as well as the transport and retention of particulate matter have important consequences on the ecological health of rivers. Managing rivers in an ecologically friendly way is a major component of sustainable engineering design, maintenance, and restoration of ecological habitats. To address these challenges, a major focus of River Flow 2016 was to highlight the latest advances in experimental, computational, and theoretical approaches that can be used to deepen our understanding and capacity to predict flow and the associated fluid-driven ecological processes, anthropogenic influences, sediment transport, and morphodynamic processes. River Flow 2016 was organized under the auspices of the Committee for Fluvial Hydraulics of the International Association for Hydro-Environment Engineering and Research (IAHR). Since its first edition in 2002, the River Flow conference series has become the main international event focusing on river hydrodynamics, sediment transport, river engineering, and restoration. Some of the highlights of the 8th International Conference on Fluvial Hydraulics were to focus on interdisciplinary research involving, among others, ecological and biological aspects relevant to river flows and processes and to emphasize broader themes dealing with river sustainability. River Flow 2016 extended abstract book (854 pages), full paper CD-ROM (2436 pages), contains the contributions presented during the regular sessions covering the main conference themes and the special sessions focusing on specific hot topics of river flow research and will be of interest to academics interested in hydraulics, hydrology, and environmental engineering.

Inflammatory Bowel Disease Nursing Manual, Andreas Sturm, Lydia White, 2025-07-25. Building on the success of the first edition, this new and expanded edition explores the complexities of inflammatory bowel disease (IBD) with an expanded focus on the viewpoint and experience of those living with IBD and the interface of clinical care and research opportunities. With cases of ulcerative colitis (UC) and Crohn's disease (CD) rising worldwide, the need for informed, patient-centered care has never been greater. Despite their profound impact on daily life and healthcare systems, these conditions remain challenging to diagnose and treat. IBD nurses are increasingly recognized as key clinicians within the multidisciplinary team caring for people with IBD. Through experience and specialist knowledge, IBD nurses provide timely support, advice, and treatment for people living with this unpredictable condition. IBD nurses are also well-placed to liaise with the wider team, developing patient-centred services which best fit their local health framework. This updated manual brings together international expertise and practical insights to support nurses and clinicians in optimizing IBD management. Whether you're a seasoned professional or looking to expand your expertise, this resource equips you with the knowledge and confidence to enhance care and improve outcomes for people living with IBD wherever in the world you work.

Architectural Technology Stephen Emmitt, 2013-03-25. It gives me great pleasure to support the first ever publication to specifically address the area of research and in particular its relationship with practice in the discipline of architectural technology, not only ground-breaking because it is the first book of its kind but also because it provides at long last one of the accepted foundations needed to underpin the emerging academic discipline, namely a recognised research base. CIAT in supporting this publication is aware of the need for books such as this to sustain the process of research-informed practice as an aid for both students and those practising within the discipline of architectural technology. Norman Wienand, MCIAT Vice President, Education, Chartered Institute of Architectural Technologists. Architectural technology is the realisation of architecture through the application of building science, forming the constructive link between the abstract and the physical. Architectural Technology research and practice demonstrates the importance of research in architectural technology and aims to stimulate further research and debate by enlightening, informing, and challenging readers. Chapter authors address the interplay between research and practice in the field of architectural technology, examining the influence of political, economic, social, environmental, and technological issues. The focus throughout is on creating sustainable buildings that are constructed economically and function effectively and efficiently within their service life cycle. The book's mix of chapters and case studies brings together a number of different themes and provides invaluable insights into the world of research from the perspective of those working within the architectural technology field: practitioners, academics, and students. The underlying message is that architectural technology is not just a profession; it is a way of thinking and a way of acting. This is highlighted by contributions from architects and architectural technologists passionate about architectural technology as a field of knowledge. Contributions range from the theoretical and polemic to the pragmatic and applied, further helping to demonstrate the richness of the field. About the Editor: Stephen Emmitt is Professor of Architectural Technology at Loughborough University, UK, and Visiting Professor of Innovation Sciences at Halmstad University, Sweden, and a member of CIAT's Research Group.
