This book looks at decolonial work as praxis involving transformation at a range of levels from theoretical development national policy institutional policy and culture academic discipline programme course classroom student and the self Our authors argue that praxis in their contexts includes working at institutional level to undo the historical power of coloniality in universities in the metropolises introducing Indigenous knowledges into curricula and undoing the effects of coloniality in embodiment temporality and whiteness We as editors argue for the need for transformation of the self as well as structures and highlight qualities such as reflexivity on our own entanglements with coloniality and why they occur in this undoing The approach offered in this book emphasises the connection between significant personal change as a pre condition and an epistemological process to connect critical decolonial theory and our teaching practice The book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Teaching in Higher Education The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956 Imprints Library of Congress, American Library Association.
