The Making and Remaking of Australasia Tony Ballantyne, 2022-11-03 This book explores the emergence of Australasia as a way of thinking about the culture and geography of this region Although it is frequently understood to apply only to Australia and New Zealand the concept has a longer and more complicated history Australasia emerged in the mid 18th century in both French and British writing as European empires extended their reach into Asia and the Pacific and initially held strong links to the Asian continent The book shows that interpretations and understandings of Australasia shifted away from Asia in light of British imperial interests in the 19th century and the concept was adapted by varying political agendas and cultural visions in order to reach into the Pacific or towards Antarctica. The Making and Remaking of Australasia offers a number of rich case studies which highlight how the idea itself was adapted and moulded by people and texts both in the southern hemisphere and the imperial metropole where a range of competing actors articulated divergent visions of this part of the British Empire. An important contribution to the cultural history of the British Empire. Australia, New Zealand and Pacific Studies. This collection shows how Australasia has had multiple often contrasting meanings. The Publisher, 1916. Climate Change and Cities Cynthia Rosenzweig, William D. Solecki, Patricia Romero-Lankao, Shagun Mehrotra, Shobhakar Dhakal, Somayya Ali Ibrahim, 2018-03-29. The Urban Climate Change Research Network's Second Assessment Report on Climate Change in Cities. ARC3 2 is the second in a series of global science based reports to examine climate risk adaptation and mitigation efforts in cities. The book explicitly seeks to explore the implications of changing climatic conditions on critical urban physical and social infrastructure sectors and intersectoral concerns. The primary purpose of ARC3 2 is to inform the development and implementation of effective urban climate change policies leveraging ongoing and planned investments for populations in cities of developing, emerging and developed countries. This volume like its predecessor will be invaluable for a range of audiences involved with climate change and cities: mayors, city officials and policymakers, urban planners, policymakers charged with developing climate change mitigation and adaptation programs and a broad spectrum of researchers and advanced students in the environmental sciences.

While the facade is one of the most thoroughly theorized elements of architecture, it is also one of the most questioned since the end of the 19th century. Within the discipline of architecture, the traditional understanding of the facade focuses primarily on semiotic and compositional operations such as proportional laws and linguistic codes which are deployed on the building's surface. In contrast to this, our material and environmental theory of the envelope proposes that the exponential development of building technologies since the mid 19th century coupled with new techniques of management and regulation have diminished the compositional and ornamental capacities of the envelope in favor of material quantitative and technical performances Rather than producing a stylistic analysis of the facade we investigate the historical lineages of the performances components assembly types and material entanglements that constitute the contemporary building envelope
