Hot Flash Woman 1:

Hot Flashes Dori Appel, Carolyn Myers, 2005 What previously forbidden subject is now a hot topic for baby boomers and beyond HOT FLASHES is a fast paced highly original comedy about menopause which has been delighting audiences throughout the United States A main stage hit at the 2004 Senior Theatre Festival in Las Vegas its nine lively scenes also include a finalist in the Eileen Heckart Drama for Seniors competition and a slam poetry winner Flexible casting possibilities allow from two to twenty actresses to perform nine scenes about the unique challenges and comic adventures of menopause

Treatment of the Postmenopausal Woman Rogerio A. Lobo, 2007-06-05 For anyone who treats postmenopausal women this latest edition of Rogerio Lobo s classic work combines the best from two well known references Menopause and the second edition of Treatment of the Postmenopausal Woman By adding significant discussions of the basic science behind menopause it is possible to objectively assess the clinical value and limitations of current approaches to treatment and provide a basis and rationale for strategies that will result in better individualized and specialized care Not only does the third edition discuss diagnosis and treatment of menopause but it covers biological anatomical physiological pathobiological and pharmacological aspects as well bringing together in one source all of the information needed to understand and treat postmenopausal conditions Over 50% new material representing the vast amount of information available since the Women s Health Initiative WHI clinical trials were completed making this the most up to date reference on postmenopausal women Includes several new sections on comparisons between clinical trials and observational data urology and pelvic support Each section is preceded by a preface to put the area into context with many chapters having suggested treatment regimens

The Hormone Decision Tara Parker-Pope, 2007-01-09 It s the most pressing question on the minds of women at any stage of the menopausal transition Should I or shouldn t I take menopause hormones The answer is far from crystal clear Hormone drugs are the most effective therapy for easing hot flashes and other common menopause symptoms But their long term effects have been the focus of intense scrutiny and debate As the weekly consumer health columnist for The Wall Street Journal Tara Parker Pope has been an eyewitness to the growing controversy surrounding hormone therapy Her understanding of menopause research and her access to the experts behind it has given her unique insight into the complex issues surrounding hormone use In The Hormone Decision Parker Pope explores the scientific political and social forces that have shaped current thinking on hormone therapy And she takes you on a head to toe tour of how hormones affect every part of your body including your brain your breasts your heart your bones your vagina and even your skin As you will discover hormone therapy is not one size fits all It s as individual as your health status family history and menopause experience When you start hormone therapy and how long you use it are major factors in determining its health effects While it may raise certain risks for some women it actually may be protective for others This is why you need an independent objective resource like The Hormone Decision It provides the context for you to understand the research ask intelligent questions and ultimately
