

disseminated. Socialization has been made possible and much simpler because of the media.

Through socialization, different societies are able to share languages, traditions, customs, roles and values. The media has become a significant social force in recent years especially for the young people. Whereas the older generations views the media as a source of entertainment and information, the majority of young people see it as a perfect platform for socialization.

The media highlights different values and norms and the possible consequences of failing to adhere to societal norms and values. Through the media, the society is able to learn how to behave in difference circumstances according to one's role and status (Siapera 34). The media helps in portraying models of behavior that are supposed to be followed by the society and its members.

How Does Media Influence Culture & Society?

The media is a fundamental agent of socialization whose operations are very basic compared to other agents such as schools, families and religious groups. The internet has got different form s of socialization such as facebook and twitter that have completely revolutionalized the way people socialize in recent times.

Apart from the internet, other media agents that have become very fundamental in socializati0on include the radio, newspapers, magazines and tabloids just to mention a few. Through these media agents, ideas and opinions can be shared and exchanged.

The internet has emerged to be very the most powerful audio-visual medium since it can now be accessed by many people across the world. Through the internet, one is able to influence others or be influenced by other people who use the internet to share and exchange their opinions. The television is another media agent that has really enhanced socialization in many ways (Siapera 71).

The television gives people a good platform to give their opinions on various topics and issues affecting the human life. The opinions shared on the television reach a large number of people because the television is a mass media that is capable of reaching a large audience. The media is often rapid and interactive and is a perfect socialization agent for young people who watch the television most of time compared to the elderly people.

Since the youth form the majority of the audience, many media houses are always smart enough to present topics and programs that appeal to the young people. Media houses have the power to manipulate their audience in a skillful manner for the
