Military Strategy and Tactics Reiner Huber, 2013-11-11 This volume brings forth a set of selected papers from the Conference on Modeling Land Battle Systems for Military Planning Sponsored by the Special Programme Panel on Systems Science of the NATO Science Committee the conference took place in Ottobrunn Germany at the War Gaming Centre of Industrieanlagen Betriebsgesellschaft The idea to organize a conference on land battle system models was first suggested to me in 1972 by Andreas Mortensen then a member of the Norwegian Defence Research Establishment and presently at the SHAPE Technical Centre when we discussed the apparent inconsistencies of various evaluations of force capability within NATO Frequently decision makers are confronted by contradictory results of different studies addressing essentially the same problem leaving them with the impression that the tools of systems analysis and operations research may not be very objective guides However experienced systems researchers know that a detailed comparison of models their assumptions and inputs would generally show that results are not really contradictory But not only seem the decision processes in large national and international organizations to be such that a comparison can hardly ever be accomplished also the documentation available is rarely sufficient to really comprehend the differences in results For these reasons we felt that an effort to review the state of the art of modeling in support of force capability assessments was overdue bordering Laos the narrow 40 kilometer long A Shau Valley situated between densely forested mountain ranges witnessed prolonged campaigning throughout the Vietnam War and served as a hub of the Communist supply network as well as a key point of access to South Vietnam Drawing upon an impressive array of archival materials this deeply researched book offers the first comprehensive account of operations and battles that transpired there during the war coupled with a trenchant analysis of the American failure to wrest control of the Valley despite years of commitment of troops and resources and how that failure contributed to the final outcome of the war In so doing it not only sheds light on where military tactics and strategy devised by American leaders went awry but also traces the extraordinary acts of heroism on the part of American soldiers many of whom lost their lives fighting the North Vietnamese in this hostile forbidding terrain This book which fills a gap in the historiography of the Vietnam War will appeal to scholars seeking to enhance their understanding of major events and turning points in the war as well as to students of military history and strategy     Ebony ,2002-09 EBONY is the flagship
