My Lady Rotha: A Romance Stanley John Weyman, 2020-09-28 I never saw anything more remarkable than the change which the death of my lady's uncle Count Tilly in the spring of 1632 worked at Heritzburg. Until the day when that news reached us we went on in our quiet corner as if there were no war. We heard and some of us believed that the Palatine Elector a good Calvinist like ourselves had made himself King of Bohemia in the Emperor's teeth and shortly afterwards which we were much more ready to believe that he was footing it among the Dutchmen. We heard that the King of Denmark had taken up his cause but taken little by the motion and then that the King of Sweden had made it his own. But these things affected us little they were like the pattering of the storm to a man hugging himself by the fireside. Through all we lay snug and warm and kept Christmas and drank the Emperor's health. Even the great sack of Magdeburg which was such an event as the world I believe will never see again moved us less to fear than to pity though the city lies something less than fifty leagues northeast of us. The reason of this I am going to tell you. Our town stands as all men know in a nook of the Thuringian Forest facing south and west towards Hesse of which my Lady Rotha Countess of Heritzburg holds it though all the land about is Saxon belonging either to Coburg or Weimar or Altenburg or the upper Duchy. On the north and east the forest rises in rolling black ridges with a grey crag shooting up spire like here and there so that from this quarter it was not wonderful that no sound of war reached us. Toward the south and west where is the mouth of the valley and whither our people point when they talk of the world a spur of the mountain runs down on either side to the Werra which used to be crossed at this point by a wooden bridge. But this bridge was swept away by floods in the winter of 1624 and never repaired as long as the war lasted. Henceforth to come to Heritzburg travellers had to cross in old Joachim's boat or if the river was very low tuck up and take the chances. Unless they came by forest paths over the mountains. Such a position favoured peace. Our friends could not easily trouble us our allies were under no temptation to quarter troops upon us. For our enemies we feared them even less. Against them we had a rampart higher than the mountains and wider than the Werra in the name of Tilly. In those days the name of the great Walloon victor in thirty fights was a word to conjure with from the Tyrol to the Elbe. Mothers used it to scare their children priests to blast their foes. His courage his cruelty and his zeal for the Roman Catholic Church combined to make him the terror of the Protestants while his strange personality and misshapen form gave rise to a thousand legends which men still tell by the fireside.

The Girl in Her Teens Margaret Slattery, 2016-01-07 THE TEEN PERIOD She was a beautiful well developed girl of thirteen. Her bright eager face with its changing expression was a fascination at all times. It seemed unusually earnest and serious that particular morning as she stood waiting the opportunity to speak to me. She had asked to wait until the others had gone and her manner as she hesitated even then to speak made me ask. Are you in trouble Edith? No not exactly trouble I don't know whether we ought to ask you but all of us girls think well we wish we could have a mirror in the locker room. Couldn't we? It's dreadful to go into school without knowing how your hair looks or anything I couldn't help laughing Her manner was so tragic that the mirror seemed the most important thing in the educational system just then I said I would see what could be done about it and felt sure that what all the girls wanted could be supplied She thanked me heartily and when she entered her own room nodded her head in answer to inquiring glances from the other girls As I made a note of the request I remembered the Edith of a year or more ago Edith whose mother found her a great trial she didn't care how she looked It was true She wore her hat hanging down over her black braids held on by the elastic band around her neck she lost hair ribbons continually and never seemed to miss them She was a good scholar wide awake alert always ready for the next thing She loved to recite and volunteered information generously In games she was the leader and on the playground always the unanimous choice for the coveted it of the game She was never in the least self conscious and as her mother had said how she looked never seemed to occur to her
