End of Life in Care Homes Jeanne Samson Katz, Sheila M. Peace, 2003-04-03 In our society the overwhelming majority of people die in later life They typically die slowly of chronic diseases with multiple co existing problems over long periods of time They spend the majority of their final years at home but many will die in hospitals or care homes This book explores the possibilities for improving the care of older people dying in residential care and nursing homes It argues that there are aspects of palliative care that given the right circumstances are transferable to dying people in settings that are not domestic or hospice based End of Life in Care Homes describes what happens in nursing and residential care homes when a resident is dying how carers cope and the practical health and emotional challenges that carers face on top of their day to day work Based on detailed research from both the UK and US the book shows how the situation can be improved

Homeward Bound Amy Zietlow, Naomi Cahn, 2017-03-08 Homeward Bound shows that as family structure becomes more complex so too does elder care and existing institutions and legal approaches are not prepared to handle those complexities As 79 million American Baby Boomers approach old age their diverse family structures mean the burden of care will fall on a different cast of family members than in the past Our current approaches are based on an outdated caregiving model that presumes life long connection between the parents and offspring with the existence of high internal norm cohesion among family members providing a valuable safety net for caregiving Single parent and remarried parent led families are far more complicated fragile and point to the need for increased formal support from the religious medical legal and public policy communities We base our analysis on in depth qualitative interviews with surviving grown children and stepchildren whose mother father stepparent or ex stepparent died Their stories illustrate the profound ways that the caregiving mourning and inheritance process has changed in ways not adequately reflected in formal legal medical and religious tools The solutions center on awareness and preparation providing more support for individual planning for incapacity and death and even more importantly creating legal political and social planning for the graying of America at a time of increasingly complex familial ties     Medicare and Medicaid Guide ,1969     Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine Peter Winn,Pamela A.
