Multiple Representations in Biological Education David F. Treagust, Chi-Yan Tsui, 2013-02-01 This new publication in the Models and Modeling in Science Education series synthesizes a wealth of international research on using multiple representations in biology education and aims for a coherent framework in using them to improve higher order learning. Addressing a major gap in the literature the volume proposes a theoretical model for advancing biology educators' notions of how multiple external representations (MERs) such as analogies, metaphors and visualizations can best be harnessed for improving teaching and learning in biology at all pedagogical levels. The content tackles the conceptual and linguistic difficulties of learning biology at each level: macro, micro, sub-micro and symbolic, illustrating how MERs can be used in teaching across these levels and in various combinations as well as in differing contexts and topic areas. The strategies outlined will help students' reasoning and problem solving skills, enhance their ability to construct mental models and internal representations and ultimately will assist in increasing public understanding of biology-related issues, a key goal in today's world of pressing concerns over societal problems about food, environment, energy and health. The book concludes by highlighting important aspects of research in biological education in the post-genomic information age. Easy Make and Learn Projects - The Human Body

Terry Roberts, Ph.D., 2019-11-26 In their world neither static definitions of intelligence nor traditional ideas of training stand us in good stead. Rather we need to reframe the question: given what lies before us and come to terms with a different answer posited in different language. This then are those who will thrive in the 21st Century. They will blend multiple intelligences in a way that might be described as synthetic or even symphonic. They will be ambitious and focused without being self-obsessed. They will value asynchrony and even seek it out. They will use their own marginality to generate novel perspective and new work. They will exhibit a steadfast resilience in all phases of life. They will be measured by what they produce over the course of a lifetime, not by any static notion of capacity or quotient. In the fractured environment of the 21st century, true success will be unique and unexpected, the result of a creative response to complex shifting challenges. So how do we prepare? How do we educate ourselves and our children for life in 2050? Resources in Education, 2001-04 Educational Research Document Summaries Educational Research Information Center (U.S.), 1966 Ohio SchoolNet Software Review Project, 1998 Research in Education, 1972 Toward Excellence in Education, 1975 Natural History Dioramas Sue Dale Tunnicliffe, Annette Scheersoi, 2014-12-05 This book brings together in a unique perspective aspects of natural history dioramas: their history, construction and rationale, interpretation and educational importance from a number of different countries from the west coast of the USA across Europe to China. It describes the journey of dioramas from their inception through development to visions of their future. A complementary
