International Migration And Development In East Asia And The Pacific:

International Migration and Development in East Asia and the Pacific Ahmad Ahsan, Manolo Abella, Andrew Beath, Yukon Huang, Trang Van Nguyen, 2014-10-15 The East Asia and Pacific EAP region has an international emigrant population of more than 21 million people who remitted US 112 billion to their home countries in 2013 The region also hosts more than 7 million migrant workers mostly from other Asian countries These migrant workers account for 20 percent or more of the labor force in economies such as Malaysia and Singapore and thus play a significant role in the economies of the labor receiving countries An aging population in many East Asian countries will create significant labor shortages leading to greater demand for migrant workers For these reasons international labor mobility is emerging as an important development issue in East Asia with important implications for reducing poverty and supporting sustainable economic development in the region In this context International Migration and Development in East Asia and the Pacific analyzes the impact of migration on development of the EAP region and examines how international migration should be managed in East Asia in a way that supports development goals while simultaneously protecting the rights of migrants The study covers trends in international migration in East Asia and overarching regional issues such as the links between macroeconomic management and remittances and the role of demographic trends in migration the economic impact of migration and remittances on labor sending countries and labor receiving countries the migration industry and the policies and institutions that govern migration This report shows that in labor sending countries remittances help reduce poverty significantly by increasing income for migrants families At the country level remittances have a significant role in helping finance trade deficits and in bolstering reserves not only in the small Pacific Island economies but also in large economies such as Vietnam and the Philippines For labor receiving countries such as Malaysia Singapore and Hong Kong SAR China migrant workers form a significant part of the workforce especially in labor intensive manufacturing construction plantation agriculture fishing and household services Migrant workers thus help relieve labor shortages boost output and maintain competitiveness The role of migrant workers will become more important in the future given the rapid population aging in many labor receiving East Asian countries Given these factors the key question concerning international migration in East Asia and the Pacific is not whether it is desirable but how it should be managed in the future International Migration and Development in East Asia and the Pacific discusses a range of policy options in both labor sending and labor receiving countries to address this question Managing International Migration for Development in East Asia Richard Adams, Ahmad Ahsan, 2014-10-15 This volume draws on a rich set of data and institutional analysis to present findings on the impact of migration on the economies of both migrant sending and migrant receiving countries in the East Asia and Pacific region The papers point out that due to demographic trends in the region managing migration is not a matter of choice but one of necessity and that while migration has significant and positive impact there are also important policy issues that need to be addressed to enhance migration s development impact and realize its full potential This book comprises background papers written for a companion World Bank volume International Migration and Development in East Asia and the Pacific The authors are leading researchers on migration and development from different countries of the region East Asia and Pacific Economic Update October 2014 World Bank,2014-10-09 In China growth will gradually moderate reflecting intensified policy efforts to address financial vulnerabilities and structural constraints and place the economy on a more sustainable growth path In the rest of the region growth will pick up as exports firm in line with strengthening global activity and the impact of domestic adjustment in large ASEAN countries eases Significant uncertainties remain about the sustainability of the global recovery and global financial conditions are likely to tighten The short term priority in several countries is to address the vulnerabilities and inefficiencies created by an extended period of loose financial conditions and fiscal stimulus In China the authorities need to strike a balance between containing growing risks from rising leverage and meeting the indicative growth targets Over the longer term the focus in most countries must be on structural reforms to enhance export competitiveness The report s special section focuses on education international migration and the policy priorities for the Pacific Island Countries East Asia Pacific at Work World Bank,2014-05-07 The unprecedented progress of East Asia Pacific is a triumph of working people Countries that were low income a generation ago successfully integrated into the global value chain exploiting their labor cost advantage In 1990 the region held about a third of the world s labor force Leveraging this comparative advantage the share of global GDP of emerging economies in East Asia Pacific grew from 7 percent in 1992 to 17 percent in 2011 Yet the region now finds itself at a critical juncture Work and its contribution to growth and well being can no longer be taken for granted The challenges range from high youth inactivity and rising inequality to binding skills shortages A key underlying issue is economic informality which constrains innovation and productivity limits the tax base and increases household vulnerability to shocks Informality is both a consequence of stringent labor regulations and limited enforcement capacity In several countries de jure employment regulations are more stringent than in many parts of Europe Even labor regulations set at reasonable levels but poorly implemented can aggravate the market failures they were designed to overcome This report argues that the appropriate policy responses are to ensure macroeconomic stability and in particular a regulatory framework that encourages small and medium sized enterprises where most people in the region work Mainly agrarian countries should focus on raising agricultural productivity In urbanizing countries good urban planning becomes critical Pacific island countries will need to provide youth with human capital needed to succeed abroad as migrant workers And across the region it is critical to formalize more work to increase the coverage of essential social protection and to sustain productivity To this end policies should encourage mobility of labor and human capital and not favor some forms of employment for instance full time wage employment in manufacturing over others either implicitly or explicitly Policies to increase growth and well being from employment should instead reflect and support the dynamism and diversity of work forms across the region

International Migration and Development in South Asia Md Mizanur Rahman, Tan Tai Yong, 2015-04-10 In migration studies the nexus between migration and development in the global South has been meticulously debated However a unanimous resolution to this debate has not been found due to the ever changing nature of international migration This book advances knowledge on the global debate on the migration development relationship by documenting experiences in a number of countries in South Asia Drawing on the experiences of global South Asians this volume documents the impact of migration on the social economic and political fields in the broader context of development It also presents a regional experience by looking into the migration development nexus in the context of South Asia and analyses the role South Asian migrants and diaspora communities play in the South Asian society Contributions from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds including sociology anthropology political science international relations and economics document the development implications of South Asian migration Broad in scope in terms of contents timeline of migration and geographical coverage the book presents empirically based case studies involving India Bangladesh Sri Lanka Pakistan and Nepal and their emigrants living and working in different parts of the world Going beyond reporting the impacts of migration on economic development by highlighting the implications of social development on society this book provides a fascinating contribution to the fields of Asian Development Migration Studies and South Asian Studies Handbook on Migration and Development Raquel Delgado Wise, Branka Likić-Brborić, Ronaldo Munck, Carl-Ulrik Schierup, 2024-08-06 This Handbook presents a comprehensive overview of the interaction between migration and development from a range of critical and counter hegemonic perspectives Exploring the strengths and weaknesses of existing practices connected with the migration and development nexus contributing authors provide a clear understanding of their complex dynamics Transforming Gender and Development in East Asia Esther Ngan-ling Chow, 2013-12-02 Transforming Gender and Development in East Asia brings together a collection of original essays from top scholars in the United States and Asia to explore the centrality of gender in the process of economic development in East Asia Contributors demonstrate through ethnography personal narratives field observation and in depth interviews the essential parts women have played in the national growth economic restructuring and industrialization of East Asian countries including South Korea Taiwan China Hong Kong Singapore and China Routledge Handbook of Southeast Asian Economics Ian Coxhead, 2014-12-17 The Routledge Handbook of Southeast Asian Economics offers new insights into the rapidly developing economies of Southeast Asia Despite widespread initial deprivation Southeast Asia has achieved and sustained a remarkable rate of growth in the course of which tens of millions have successfully escaped severe poverty Though the economies of the region vary in many dimensions integration into the wider East Asian network of production and trade is a notable common feature one that continues a centuries long history of engagement with global trade A second striking feature is the pace and extent of transformation in the structure of production and in sources of household income in the region which has undergone remarkably rapid industrialization and urban growth However the search for sustained and sustainable growth through and beyond middle income continues to confront pressing economic and policy challenges This Handbook offers a timely and comprehensive overview of Southeast Asian economic development Organized according to the logic of chronological and thematic unity it is structured in these sections Growth and development over the long term Food agriculture and natural resources Trade investment and industrialization Population labor and human capital Poverty and political economy Twenty first century challenges This original Handbook written by experts in their fields is unique in the breadth and depth of its coverage Its forward looking perspective renders it relevant both now and in the future This advanced level reference work will be essential reading for students researchers and scholars of Asian Studies Economics and Southeast Asian studies World Migration 2005 Costs and Benefits of International Migration International Organization for Migration,2006 Una buena y racional informaci n para inmigrantes gobiernos sociedad civil comunidades y sector privado puede ayudar a maximizar los beneficios y minimizar los costes de la migraci n en t rminos sociales pol ticos y econ micos Population Change and Economic Development in East Asia Andrew Mason,2001 The fifteen essays in this volume address from several viewpoints the question of what role population change played in East Asia s rapid economic development Development Centre Studies Policy Coherence Towards East Asia Development Challenges for OECD Countries OECD Development Centre,2005-11-17 This book looks at the impact of OECD country policies on East Asia in trade investment agriculture finance aid macroeconomic policies and regional co operation Further it examines the interaction of OECD country policies and their coherence with each other Ensuring A Square Meal: Women And Food Security In Southeast Asia Theresa W Devasahayam,2018-08-21 Research on women and food security in Southeast Asia has been limited The collection of chapters in Ensuring a Square Meal Women and Food Security in Southeast Asia is one of the first attempts at providing a lens into the linkages between women and food security at the household community national and transnational levels More broadly the chapters examine women s contribution in households resource distribution to produce food and the purchasing power to buy food In analysing the various facets of food security in relation to gender the analyses focus on the meanings of private and public and the extent to which the effects of the two spheres spill over into each other Given women s critical role in food production and provision the book assesses the structural forces enabling women to access productive resources and in turn ensure sustainable strategies for food security as well as it evaluates how governments might address the constraints women face in this vital role Challenging Southeast Asian Development Jonathan Rigg,2015-07-30 Over the course of the last half century the growth economies of Southeast Asia Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore Thailand and Vietnam have transformed themselves into middle income countries This book looks at how the very success of these economies has bred new challenges novel problems and fresh tensions including the fact that particular individuals sectors and regions have been marginalised by these processes Contributing to discussions of policy implications the book melds endogenous and exogenous approaches to thinking about development paths re frames Asia's model's of growth and draws out the social environmental political and economic side effects that have arisen from growth An interesting analysis of the problems that come alongside development's achievements this book is an important contribution to Southeast Asian Studies Development Studies and Environmental Studies Trade and Poverty Reduction in the Asia-Pacific Region Andrew L. Stoler, Jim Redden, Lee Ann Jackson, World Trade Organization, 2009-12-03 An examination of how trade can act as a catalyst for poverty reduction in the Asia Pacific region Labour Mobility in the Asia-Pacific Region Graeme Hugo, Soogil Young, 2008 Driven by demographic changes and reinforced by intensifying globalization international labour mobility has been on the rise in recent decades in the Asia Pacific region It seems that after trade and investment labour mobility constitutes the final frontier for regional integration among the Asia Pacific economies There is no doubt that labour movements are integral to regional economic integration and critical to the long term health of the regional economies and business operations In reality however such movements are much burdened with political and social problems in the labour origin economies as well as the labour destination economies and yet many of these problems remain not just unaddressed by the relevant governments but not even well studied The present volume seeks to fill this gap by offering synthesis papers stemming from the studies on international labour migration in twenty Asia Pacific economies which were discussed at a joint PECC ABAC conference held in Seoul Korea on 25-26 March 2008 organized by KOPEC These papers examine the demographic transition the associated pattern of international labour migration the national policies associated with it as well as their implications for business and the issues they raise and finally the implications of these analyses for cooperation among the APEC governments for each of the four subregions in the Asia Pacific as well as for the whole region Understanding Global Migration James F. Hollifield, Neil Foley, 2022-03-01 Understanding Global Migration offers scholars a groundbreaking account of emerging migration states around the globe especially in the Global South Leading scholars of migration have collaborated to provide a birds eye view of migration interdependence Understanding Global Migration proposes a new typology of migration states identifying multiple ideal types beyond the classical liberal type Much of the world's migration has been to countries in Asia Africa the Middle East and South America The authors assembled here account for diverse histories of colonialism development and identity in shaping migration policy This book provides a truly global look at the dilemmas of migration governance Will migration be destabilizing or will it lead to greater openness and human development The answer depends on the capacity of states to manage migration especially their willingness to respect the rights of the ever growing portion of the world's population that is on the move East Asia and Pacific Cities Judy L. Baker, Gauri U. Gadgil, 2017-07-19 As many cities in East Asia and the Pacific prosper some urban dwellers are left behind lacking access to housing services jobs and social equality International Handbook on Education Development in the Asia-Pacific Wing On Lee, Phillip Brown, A. Lin Goodwin, Andy Green, 2023-11-20 The Springer International Handbook of Educational

Development in Asia Pacific breaks new ground with a comprehensive fine grained and diverse perspective on research and education development throughout the Asia Pacific region In 13 sections and 127 chapters the Handbook delves into a wide spectrum of contemporary topics including educational equity and quality language education learning and human development workplace learning teacher education and professionalization higher education organisations citizenship and moral education and high performing education systems The Handbook is grounded in specific Asia Pacific contexts and scholarly traditions using unique country specific narratives for example Vietnam and Melanesia and socio cultural investigations through lenses such as language identity or colonisation while offering parallel academic discourse and analyses framed by broader policy commentary from around the world

Understanding Changes in Poverty Gabriela Inchauste, João Pedro Azevedo, B. Essama-Nssah, Sergio Olivieri, Trang Van Nguyen, Jaime Saavedra-Chanduvi, Hernan Winkler, 2014-08-21 The 2015 Millennium Development Goal to cut in half the share of the world's population living in extreme poverty was met with time to spare By 2013 the percentage of developing country populations living in extreme poverty decreased from 43 percent in 1990 to 21 percent by 2010 Clearly there is still a long way to go with 1.2 billion people without enough to eat What can we learn from the recent success This volume presents recent methods to decompose the contributions to poverty reduction What was the main contributor to poverty reduction Using a simple accounting approach we find that labor income growth was the largest contributor to moderate poverty reduction for a group of 21 countries with substantial reductions in poverty over the past decade Moreover in most cases it was the growth in income per worker that contributed the most to poverty reduction rather than an increase in employment Changes in demographics public transfers and remittances helped but made relatively smaller contributions to poverty reduction Public transfers were important in reducing extreme poverty pointing to the crucial role of social protection systems How was labor income growth able to reduce poverty After a review of the literature a structural decomposition method is presented and implemented in three countries The results show that that labor income grew mainly because of higher returns to human capital endowments This could signal increases in productivity a higher relative price of labor or both In Bangladesh and Peru this was driven by higher returns to workers with low levels of education which may have partly been driven by higher food prices In contrast in Thailand poverty fell partly due to increasing returns to education
