Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies and Material Culture Reflection Essay

The Museum Studies Certificate Program introduced me to a wealth of perspectives on museological research and challenged me to think critically about the ethics of representation within cultural institutions and museum spaces. Obtaining a Master's degree in American Studies is part of a career change, and the Certificate program gave me the opportunity to step out of my academic comfort zone and apply my research processes to understanding cultural performance as a mode of presentation. As I am not a material culturalist, archivist, anthropologist or archeologist, my approach to the Certificate was perhaps a bit different than my fellow graduate students. With Dr. Judith Freidenberg's permission, I shaped my course of study around issues of research and performance instead of material culture or anthropological theory. When I enrolled in the program during my second semester, my mind was steeped in the topics of my Master's thesis: subcultural theory and performances of middle aged identities in nightclub spaces, and cultural performance was not yet on my academic radar.

During the Introduction to Museum Studies seminar, my interest was piqued by issues of shared curatorial authority and representation, particularly during the readings on the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, where I was introduced to the problematic issues of representation embedded in "exhibiting" living cultures, as well as the idea that curation can hold the possibility to reimagine power relationships - at least to some extent - in settings that go beyond the traditional brick and mortar museum setting which enshrines objects. My general approach to

The Humble Argument Roy K. Humble, 2024-07-01 The Humble Argument is so much more than a writing textbook It gives you tools tips and tricks that actually explain what a writer does It doesn't sugarcoat the process or dumb down the very real challenges that entering a college writing space requires This book is more like a friend It's the kind of friend that will coach you through a tough time encourage you and make you laugh while you go through it It's the kind of friend who holds your hair back when you're sick of writing and gives you the courage to try again Roy K Humble is the kind of writing teacher who understands the struggle of learning how to write arguments like a college student and doesn't just tell you what you want to hear His lessons here are profound but in the sense that they are delivered by someone who wants you to feel included in the conversation about what good college writing should be He writes to students in language they can understand without becoming English majors with just enough humor to keep them reading He writes for faculty moving through the unadorned guiding principles of effective formal writing so that faculty have a great framework on which to build their classes Perhaps most importantly Humble understands that the price of a book matters to students so his books are affordable From every perspective Humble gets it The Humble

Argument has students covered on these important topics Understanding argument as an idea Grasping the stages of the writing process Organizing an argument around rhetorical principles Thinking for yourself as a college student Crafting a careful and clear thesis Gathering and synthesizing evidence to support a thesis Guiding readers through a thoughtful persuasive essay
