Multiliteracies, Emerging Media, and College Writing Instruction Santosh Khadka, 2019-02-25 This book proposes a broad based multiliteracies theory and praxis for college writing curriculum Khadka expands on the work of the

New London Group's theory of multiliteracies by integrating work from related disciplinary fields such as media studies, intercultural communication, World Englishes, writing studies, and literacy studies to show how they might be brought together to aid in designing curriculum for teaching multiple literacies including visual, digital, intercultural, and multimodal in writing and literacy classes. Building on insights developed from qualitative analysis of data from the author's own course, the book examines the ways in which diverse groups of students draw on existing literacy practices while also learning to cultivate the multiple literacies including academic, rhetorical, visual, intercultural, and multimodal needed in mediating the communication challenges of a globalized world. This approach allows for both an exploration of students' negotiation of their cultural, linguistic, and modal differences and an examination of teaching practices in these classrooms collectively demonstrating the challenges and opportunities afforded by a broad-based multiliteracies theory and praxis. This book will be of particular interest to scholars and researchers in writing studies, rhetoric, and communication studies, multimodality, media studies, literacy studies, and language education.

Media Research Methods James A. Anderson, 2011-09-21. Media Research Methods: Understanding Metric and Interpretive Approaches brings the insights of a senior theorist, methodologist, and critic to the classroom. Departing from the methods recipe approach, the text explains the reasons behind the methods and makes the connections to theory and knowledge production. Written in a conversational style, the book engages students and appeals to them as media consumers and users of research. The book takes the reader through each step of the research process, outlining the procedures, differences, strengths, and limitations of metric, interpretive, and the newer hybrid approaches. The text lays down a strong foundation in empirical research and problem solving, addressing metric topics of hypotheses, sampling, statistics, survey, and experimental protocols, and interpretive topics of textual analysis, coding, critical engagement, and ethnography. A special chapter at the end of the book is a helpful guide for those readers who aspire to a research and analysis career.

Tracking the Media Subarno Chattarji, 2009-03-09. This book is about media content analysis in the English language print media in South Asia with reference to certain contemporary issues. It is written from the perspective of the need to analyze media discourses and the ways in which their circulation creates a common sense view of the world. The focus is on English language papers and news magazines; additionally, some Hindi, Urdu, and Sindhi newspapers are examined. The highlight is on the ways in which English language publications contribute to and function within middle class matrices of modernity, consumption, conflict, and conservatism in India.
