Office hours are by appointment.

Purpose and Objectives

This course provides students with a rich knowledge of significant literary works from the late middle ages to 1700, and it explores the intellectual, socio-cultural, and political developments that form the respective contexts of those works. Course readings include medieval romance, The Canterbury Tales, Renaissance poetry and drama, and Restoration prose. The authors we will study include Geoffrey Chaucer, John Webster, William Shakespeare, Mary Wroth, John Donne, John Milton, and Aphra Behn. In Literature 2, we consider the continuities as much as the differences between texts as we situate works in their immediate context. Students will hone the critical abilities that they developed in Literature 1 as they further develop and strengthen their capacities as interpreters of, and respondents to, English literature.

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

- Be able to analyze and discuss diverse forms of literature from the period 1400-1700.
- Be able both to recognize and discuss characteristics of literature from each period under analysis, and to discuss connections between works of literature across time.
