Edward S. Little

Episcopal Liturgical Calendar 2printable:

The Justice of God Arthur Pink, 2020-07-15 It is scarcely surprising that far less has been written upon the justice of God than upon some of the other Divine perfections We are accustomed to turn our thoughts unto those objects and subjects which afford us the most pleasure and to avoid those which render us uneasy But no servant of the Lord should be guilty of pandering to this tendency Rather must he endeavor with all his might to declare all the counsel of God and to portray the Divine character just as it is set forth in Holy Writ He must not conceal a single feature thereof no matter how awe inspiring it is or how repellent to the fallen creature It is impossible for us to entertain right conceptions of God unless we have before us a full orb'd sight of His varied excellencies To view Him only as Love to refuse to contemplate Him as Light will necessarily result in our manufacturing a false god in our imaginations a caricature of the true and living God God is a Being possessed of every excellence Not one of them could be lacking without changing His character and therefore if any one of them is either unintentionally or deliberately omitted then the object of contemplation is not the true God but a figment which is the outcome of our misconception Yet while we are required to acknowledge all the Divine attributes nevertheless they do not all produce the same effect in our heart and mind Some are objects of pleasure but others fill us with awe and fear Divine wisdom delights us with the wonders of its production and the marvels of its contrivance Divine goodness charms us with the richness and variety of its gifts As we contemplate God as a gracious Benefactor joy is awakened within us and as we perceive Him ministering to our numerous needs we are filled with gratitude But when we turn our thoughts unto the immaculate holiness of the Divine nature and the inflexible justice of His moral government a different order of sentiments is evoked
