Fact Book on Higher Education , 1980 The Political Economy of Higher Education Finance Julian L. Garritzmman, 2016-08-17 This book analyzes the political economy of higher education finance across a range of OECD countries exploring why some students pay extortionate tuition fees whilst for others their education is free What are the redistributational consequences of these different tuition subsidy systems Analysing the variety of existing systems Garritzmman shows that across the advanced democracies Four Worlds of Student Finance exist Historically however all countries higher education systems looked very much alike in the 1940s The book develops a theoretical model the Time Sensitive Partisan Theory to explain why countries have evolved from a similar historical starting point to today s very distinct Four Worlds The empirical analyses combine a wide variety of qualitative and quantitative evidence studying higher education policies in all advanced democracies from 1945 2015 Lobbying for Higher Education Constance Ewing Cook, 1998 Historically many faculty and administrators in higher education have regarded themselves as above the fray part of the national interest not a special interest and considered lobbying a dirty business unworthy of their lofty enterprise Now that academia no longer enjoys all the respect and good will that federal policy makers once afforded it that attitude has changed The Republican sweep of the 1994 Congressional elections served as a wake up call for the higher education community In response it made a spirited effort to gain attention for its own policy preferences Lobbying for Higher Education is about how the major higher education associations and the constituent American colleges and universities try to influence federal policy especially congressional policy In clear prose Cook explains how the higher education community organizes itself in Washington how it lobbies and how its major interest groups are perceived both by their own members and by public officials The book focuses on the crucial development in 1995 1996 of a new lobbying paradigm which included the greater use of campus based resources and ad hoc coalitions The most engrossing part of its story is higher education s creative response to the policy turmoil and disruption of the status quo that resulted from the shift in congressional party control The author Constance Cook uses sources unique to this project over 1 500 survey responses from college and university presidents a 62% return rate and nearly 150 interviews with institutional and association leaders Fortuitously the 1994 electoral upheaval provided her with an opportunity to capture analyze and interpret the responses of her subjects in a
