Urban Environments in Africa Myers, Garth, 2016-02-24 Africa's urban populations are growing rapidly raising numerous environmental concerns as the pace of change stretches local resources and generates hazardous and unhealthy living conditions. Because these urban areas are also linked to the extremes of both poverty and wealth they offer a unique opportunity for analyzing the many aspects of environmental politics. Drawing on fieldwork data, map analysis, place name study, interviews, and fiction studies, Garth Myers explores African environmentalism from a variety of perspectives. By acknowledging the clash between Western planning mindsets that focus on sustainable development and the lived realities of residents in often poor informal settlements, this important book marks a critical advance in the study of Africa's urban environments. It will have a profound impact across disciplines from geography to urban development, environmental and African studies.

Information and Communications Technology in STEM Education Umesh Ramnarain, Mdutshekelwa Ndlovu, 2023-07-21

This timely book presents the latest scholarly research on the integration of Information Communications Technology (ICT) for enhanced STEM education in African schools and universities. Featuring critical discussion and illustration of key data-led arguments, this volume gives a comprehensive picture of the breadth, complexity, and diversity of issues present in different African countries. It highlights a diverse range of topics such as approaches to ICT integration, the use of digital technologies to support inquiry-based learning, teacher development, and contextual issues in ICT integration for STEM education. Chapters feature contributions and shared experiences from prominent science educators and researchers from across African regions and demonstrate findings and reflections on emerging trends, pedagogical innovations, and research-informed practices on ICT integration in STEM education. Offering cutting-edge research on STEM and digital education in Africa, the book will appeal to researchers, postgraduate students, and scholars in the fields of STEM education, ICT education, digital education, and pedagogy.

Differentiated Instruction Around the World Verena Letzel-Alt, Marcela Pozas, 2023-07-21 14 different countries, various research methods, 1 topic. Differentiated Instruction. With increasingly diverse student populations in schools, the establishment of inclusive classrooms has become a top international priority. Teachers around the world are urged to differentiate their instruction in order to support all students' learning needs. Although there is research on the topic, there are still important gaps to explore, especially the underrepresented international research output. This book tackles such limitations and provides a first-ever publication concerning global insights into differentiated instruction. A total of 14 countries from 5 continents provide empirical evidence, theoretical and practical approaches to the topic. The book wraps up with a contribution from Prof. Dr. John Hattie, University of Melbourne, who shares eight theses to help the continuing debate and research on differentiated instruction.

1936-1995 Bernhard Zipfel, Brian G. Richmond, Carol V. Ward, 2020-05-07 The 1924 African discovery of an early hominin child's skull referred to as Australopithecus africanus by Raymond Dart was a major event in the history of paleoanthropology This provided the first evidence of early hominins in Africa and overturned conventional ideas about human evolution Subsequent discoveries of A. africanus fossils notably from cave deposits at Sterkfontein yielded the first evidence that early hominins were habitual bipeds Fifty years after this the discovered wealth of fossil evidence in eastern Africa of the slightly older and craniodentally more primitive taxon A. afarensis catalyzed debates about the origin and evolution of human gait and the phylogenetic relationships among early hominins This formed the main basis of our understanding of early hominin bipedality and paleobiology Little attention has been paid to the variation among species in postcranial anatomy and locomotion although intriguing hints are beginning to appear in the literature Did multiple varieties of bipedality evolve Did australopithecine species differ in positional or manipulative abilities body proportions or patterns of sexual dimorphism These are critical questions for understanding the evolution of australopithecines and hominin locomotion In this book Bernhard Zipfel Brian Richmond Carol Ward and the most knowledgeable scholars in their respective fields provide groundbreaking accounts for each postcranial fossil and expert examinations into the background of each fossil The chapters include standardized high quality photographs and anatomical descriptions to allow readers to read the book entirely or learn by comparing features across chapters

Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman,2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industryacademia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region

Productivity Improvement in Manufacturing SMEs Thomas Thinandavha Munyai,Boysana Lephoi Mbonyane,Charles Mbohwa,2017-12-12 This book focuses on the application of workstudy in productivity of manufacturing SMEs locally and abroad and also explores various industrial problems which face manufacturing SMEs in developing and underdeveloped countries in the rest of the world Low productivity is currently a serious challenge facing manufacturing SMEs where these SMEs are operating below expected production output levels which makes it difficult for them to compete in the global market SMEs are the engine drivers of economic growth one of which is manufacturing The challenge is that government from various countries in developing and underdeveloped countries mandated agencies in their respective areas to ensure that there is economic progress for these SMEs but productivity remains low in the manufacturing SMEs When SMEs do not perform well productivity of manufacturing SMEs declines and unemployment increases Thus an increase in unemployment results in a drop of GDP in the country and can become a global and economic crisis This book describes a process which enables the reader to use effective knowledge that addresses problems facing the productivity of manufacturing SMEs such as work study tools and case studies and provides solutions and applications to improve the running of the manufacturing SMEs in growing their productivity
