

A woman's silhouette is shown in profile, facing right. Her hair is styled in a braid. A bright light source from the left creates a strong highlight on her hair and the back of her neck. In the background, a faint, glowing DNA double helix structure is visible, rendered in a reddish-pink hue. The overall color palette is dark, with highlights from the light source and the glowing DNA structure.

The Unwanted Europeanness? Branislav Radeljić, 2021-01-18 Can we be optimistic about the future of Europe To what extent has the European integrationist project affected the discourse about the core and the semi periphery Why does the European Union struggle with its own and the neighbouring Other These are some of the questions addressed in this thought provoking volume about the dilemmas surrounding the ever uncertain European unity A wide range of contributors have drawn upon invaluable sources and data to examine a broad selection of official discords and discrepancies characterizing the EU's relations with the Balkans East Central Europe and beyond Moreover past events have shaped present political and socioeconomic cooperation or its deficiencies with no reason to believe that these present challenges will not further influence future arrangements at a supranational or intergovernmental level Whichever the period questions of belonging solidarity and the unwanted Other have remained relevant and have continued to penetrate discussions In addition to complementing the existing analyses of European developments the present findings are of great relevance for researchers policymakers and general readership In fact they are essential if we want to see Europe develop Giambatista Viko; or,

The Rape of African Discourse Georges Ngal, 2022-03-25 Georges Ngal's pathbreaking satire Giambatista Viko explores the vexed relations between metropolitan centers and peripheral former colonies through its titular antihero an African professor at an African studies institute divided between European focused cosmopolitans and Africanists Struggling to write the great African novel and subject to abuse Viko realizes he can no longer separate the African and the European parts of his multilayered African francophone culture Viko's fate is a warning about the perils of artistic creation in a world where power is not shared Part of the wave of African novels of the 1960s and 1970s that grappled with the disenchantments of decolonization Giambatista Viko can be read at once as a Congolese novel a francophone novel and a work of world literature

Civilizing Emotions Margrit Pernau, Helge Jordheim, Orit Bashkin, Christian Bailey, Oleg Benesch, Jan Ifversen, Mana Kia, Rochona Majumdar, Angelika C. Messner, Myoung-kyu Park, Emmanuelle Saada, Mohinder Singh, Einar Wigen, 2015-08-27 At the beginning of the twenty first century the vocabulary of civility and civilization is very much at the forefront of political debate Most of these debates proceed as if the meaning of these words were self evident This is where Civilizing Emotions intervenes tracing the history of the concepts of civility and civilization and thus adding a level of self reflexivity to the present debates Unlike previous histories Civilizing Emotions takes a global perspective highlighting the roles of civility and civilization in the creation of a new and hierarchized global order in the era of high imperialism and its entanglements with the developments in a number of well chosen European and Asian countries Emotions were at the core of the practices linked to the creation of a new global order in the nineteenth century Civilizing Emotions explores why and how emotions were an asset in civilizing peoples and societies their control and management but also their creation and their ascription to different societies and social groups The study is a contribution to the history of emotions to global history and to the history of

Stories of Tonality in the Age of François-Joseph Fétis Thomas Christensen, 2019-06-14 Stories of Tonality in the Age of François-Joseph Fétis explores the concept of musical tonality through the writings of the Belgian musicologist François-Joseph Fétis (1784-1867) who was singularly responsible for theorizing and popularizing the term in the nineteenth century. Thomas Christensen weaves a rich story in which tonality emerges as a theoretical construct born of anxiety and alterity for Europeans during this time as they learned more about other musics and alternative tonal systems. Tonality became a central vortex in which French musicians thought and argued about a variety of musical repertoires: be they contemporary European musics of the stage, concert hall or church; folk songs from the provinces; microtonal scale systems of Arabic and Indian music; or the medieval and Renaissance music whose notational traces were just beginning to be deciphered by scholars. Fétis's influential writings offer insight into how tonality ingrained itself within nineteenth-century music discourse and why it has continued to resonate with uncanny prescience throughout the musical upheavals of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries.

Race in France Herrick Chapman, Laura L. Frader, 2004-06-01 Scholars across disciplines on both sides of the Atlantic have recently begun to open up as never before the scholarly study of race and racism in France. These original essays bring together in one volume new work in history, sociology, anthropology, political science and legal studies. Each of the eleven articles presents fresh research on the tension between a republican tradition in France that has long denied the legitimacy of acknowledging racial difference and a lived reality in which racial prejudice shaped popular views about foreigners, Jews, immigrants and colonial people. Several authors also examine efforts to combat racism since the 1970s.

Humanitarian Intervention, Colonialism, Islam and Democracy Gustavo Gozzi, 2021-04-13 This book offers a critical analysis of the European colonial heritage in the Arab countries and highlights the way this legacy is still with us today informing the current state of relations between Europe and the formerly colonized states. The work analyses the fraught relationship between the Western powers and the Arab countries that have been subject to their colonial rule. It does so by looking at this relationship from two vantage points. On the one hand is that of humanitarian intervention, a paradigm under which colonial rule coexisted alongside humanitarian policies pursued on the dual assumption that the colonized were barbarous peoples who wanted to be civilized and that the West could lay a claim of superiority over an inferior humanity. On the other hand is the Arab view from which the humanitarian paradigm does not hold up and which accordingly offers its own insights into the processes through which the Arab countries have sought to wrest themselves from colonial rule. In unpacking this analysis the book traces a history of international and colonial law to this end, also using the tools offered by the history of political thought. The book will be of interest to students, academics and researchers working in legal history, international law, international relations, the history of political thought and colonial studies.

Melodramatic Voices: Understanding Music Drama

Sarah Hibberd, 2016-04-22 The genre of melodrama, grand spectacle that emerged in the boulevard theatres of

Paris in the 1790s and which was quickly exported abroad expressed the moral struggle between good and evil through a drama of heightened emotions Physical gesture mise en scene and music were as important in communicating meaning and passion as spoken dialogue The premise of this volume is the idea that the melodramatic aesthetic is central to our understanding of nineteenth century music drama broadly defined as spoken plays with music operas and other hybrid genres that combine music with text and or image This relationship is examined closely and its evolution in the twentieth century in selected operas musicals and films is understood as an extension of this nineteenth century aesthetic The book therefore develops our understanding of opera in the context of melodrama s broader influence on musical culture during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries This book will appeal to those interested in film studies drama theatre and modern languages as well as music and opera

Sandrine Chapin, 2011 The dissertation analyzes the projects of popular theater devised by the republican governments and assemblies 1878 to 1893 in order to understand the conflicted point of view of republicans with regard to the democratization of art In the 1880s the four state subsidized theaters the Opéra Comique the Comédie Française and the Odéon had a very select audience Yet republicans were divided on the issue of its diversification On the one hand the purportedly inferior moral capacities of the popular public made dramatic performances hazardous without a prior education of its will On the other hand it was fair to let people who paid for the upkeep of state subsidized theaters access these institutions and to fulfill the wish of a significant part of the population to acquaint themselves with high brow culture The successive projects of popular theater represent the various solutions imagined by republican governments to reconcile two contradictory impulses democratization and discrimination They show how a culture of prejudices inherited from previous regimes progressively came to terms with a new conception of justice more respectful of individuals autonomy and sovereignty At the end of the 1870s the minister of public instruction and fine arts Adolphe Delcort denied that the state had any responsibility to democratize art He variously argued that democratization happened spontaneously or that the artistic mission of the state did not include the dissemination of works Jules Ferry believed that the state owed a theater to the lower classes but convinced that lower classes were inferior in their aptitudes he imagined a popular lyric theater that would be the pale copy of the Opéra Finally Léon Bourgeois accepted the director of the Opéra's proposition that the institution should organize reduced price performances Bourgeois thought it more conducive to social peace to promote a common culture than to cultivate separate class identities In his mind the difference between the people and the elite should consist in their respective degrees of exposure to high brow culture The study of theatrical democratization in the 1880s shows that French republicans abided by two principles of government One which reflected the republicans universalist credo advocated the equal treatment of individuals by virtue of their equal rights The other inspired by utilitarian tenets defended the differentiated treatment of individuals on the grounds of their unequal aptitudes This dissertation argues that the ambiguity of the notion of merit in the republicans discourse did it lie in the essence of a social group or was it the result of individuals actions informed a tension between the desire to extend liberties and democratize elite practices on the one hand and the perceived necessity to control activities and discriminate against the people on the other
