Psychomotor Symptomatology in Psychiatric Illnesses Manuel Morrens, Sebastian Walther, 2015-12-10 Psychomotor symptoms are those symptoms that are characterized by deficits in the initiation execution and monitoring of movements such as psychomotor slowing catatonia neurological soft signs NSS reduction in motor activity or extrapyramidal symptoms EPS These symptoms have not always received the attention they deserve although they can be observed in a wide range of psychiatric illnesses including mood disorders psychotic disorders anxiety disorders pervasive developmental disorders and personality disorders Nevertheless these symptoms seem to have prognostic value on clinical and functional outcome in several pathologies In the late 19th century the founding fathers of modern psychiatry including Kahlbaum Wernicke Kraepelin and Bleuler had a strong focus on psychomotor abnormalities in their description and definitions of psychiatric illnesses and systematically recognized these as core features of several psychiatric pathologies Nevertheless emphasis on these symptoms has reduced substantially since the emergence of psychopharmacology given the association between antipsychotics or antidepressants and medication induced motor deficits This has resulted in the general idea that most if not all psychomotor deficits were merely side effects of their treatment rather than intrinsic features of the illness Yet the last two decades a renewed interest in these deficits can be observed and has yielded an exponential growth of research into these psychomotor symptoms in several psychiatric illnesses This recent evolution is also reflected in the increased appreciation of these symptoms in the DSM 5 As a result of this increased focus new insights into the clinical and demographical presentation the etiology the course the prognostic value as well as treatment aspects of psychomotor symptomatology in different illnesses has emerged Still many new questions arise from these findings This research topic is comprised of all types of contributions original research reviews and opinion piece with a focus on psychomotor symptomatology in a psychiatric illness especially research focusing on one or more of the following topics the clinical presentation of the psychomotor syndrome the course through the illness the diagnostical specificity of the syndrome the underlying neurobiological or neuropsychological processes new assessment techniques pharmacological or non pharmacological treatment strategies

Grieve's Modern Musculoskeletal Physiotherapy Gwendolen Jull, Ann Moore, Deborah Falla, Jeremy Lewis, Christopher McCarthy, Michele Sterling, 2015-05-11

Since the third edition of Grieve's Modern Manual Therapy was published in 2005 the original concepts of manipulative therapy have grown to embrace new research generated knowledge Expansions in practice have adopted new evidence which include consideration of psychological or social moderators The original manual therapy or manipulative therapy approaches have transformed into musculoskeletal physiotherapy and this is recognized by the change in title for the new edition Grieve's Modern Musculoskeletal Physiotherapy Grieve's Modern Musculoskeletal Physiotherapy continues to bring together the latest state of the art research from both clinical practice and the related basic sciences which is most relevant to practitioners The topics addressed and the contributing authors reflect the best and most clinically relevant contemporary work within the field of musculoskeletal physiotherapy With this as its foundation and a new six strong editorial team at its helm the fourth edition now expands its focus from the vertebral column to the entire musculoskeletal system For the first time both the spine and extremities are covered capturing the key advances in science and practices relevant to musculoskeletal physiotherapy The book is divided into five parts containing multiple sections and chapters The first part looks at advances in the sciences underpinning musculoskeletal physiotherapy practice Here there is commentary on topics such as movement the interaction between pain and motor control as well as neuromuscular adaptations to exercise Applied anatomical structure is covered in addition to the challenges of lifestyle and ageing A new section highlights the important area of measurement and presents the scope of current and emerging measurements for investigating central and peripheral aspects relating to pain function and morphological change Another section discusses some contemporary research approaches such as quantitative and qualitative methods as well as translational research Part III contains sections on the principles of and broader aspects of management which are applicable to musculoskeletal disorders of both the spine and periphery Topics include models for management prescription communication and pain management and contemporary principles of management for the articular nervous and sensorimotor systems In recognition of the patient centred and inclusive nature of contemporary musculoskeletal practice there is also discussion about how physiotherapists may use cognitive behavioural therapies when treating people with chronic musculoskeletal disorders The final part of the book focuses on selected contemporary issues in clinical practice for a particular region condition or the most topical approaches to the diagnosis and management of a region A critical review of the evidence or developing evidence for approaches is given and areas for future work are highlighted Presents state of the art manual therapy research from the last 10 years Multidisciplinary authorship presents the viewpoints of different professions crucial to the ongoing back pain management debate Highly illustrated and fully
