Carl Sagan was perhaps one of the most influential scientific minds that the world has ever experienced. When he learned that stars were actually extremely distant suns, his world was changed and the magnitude of the universe opened up to him. Another strong motivator into science came with his reading of a popular science fiction book of the time, The Burroughs Tales. The stories were not extremely sound scientifically, but still presented ideals of adventure and the unknown. The idea that life could exist elsewhere in the universe fascinated Sagan and remained with him for the rest of his life (Escher).

Perhaps one of Sagan's most famous individual accomplishments was his involvement with the Pioneer 10 Space Probe. The probe was created to be the first object to exit our galaxy. Sagan acknowledged that the chances of anything actually discovering the probe were astronomical, but believed that it was important to promote public appreciation for science and thought the project to be "all in good fun" (McDonough 50).

Writing Classified and Unclassified Papers for National Security James S. Major, 2008-11-25. Since 9/11 the profession of intelligence has come under increased scrutiny. Written products have been criticized for lack of clarity or for unconvincing arguments. Nations have gone to war based on what was considered the best available intelligence only to learn later that it had been flawed. A lack of standards for written products across the Intelligence Community has adversely impacted those products and those who depend upon them. Writing Classified and Unclassified Papers for National Security is designed to serve as a style guide for those in the intelligence profession and for those aspiring to that career and pursuing studies in intelligence, national security, homeland security or homeland defense. It provides essential information and guidelines regarding the preparation of written products to satisfy the intended consumers. This desktop reference is essential for career intelligence professionals and as a reference book for students.

Analysis and Visualization of Citation Networks Dangzhi Zhao, Andreas Strotmann, 2022-06-01. Citation analysis, the exploration of reference patterns in the scholarly and scientific literature, has long been applied in a number of social sciences to study research impact, knowledge flows and knowledge networks. It has important information science applications as well, particularly in knowledge representation and in information retrieval. Recent years have seen a burgeoning interest in citation analysis to help address research management or information service issues such as university rankings, research evaluation or knowledge domain visualization. This renewed and growing interest stems from significant improvements in the availability and accessibility of digital bibliographic data, both citation and full text, and of relevant computer technologies. The former provides large amounts of data and the latter the necessary tools for researchers to conduct new types of large scale citation analysis even without special access to special data collections. Exciting new developments are emerging this way in many aspects of citation analysis. This book critically examines both theory and practical techniques of citation network analysis and visualization, one of the two main types of citation analysis, the other being evaluative citation analysis. To set the context for its main theme, the book begins with a discussion of the foundations of citation analysis in general, including an overview of what can and what cannot be done with citation analysis. Chapter 1: An in depth examination of the generally accepted steps and procedures for citation network analysis follows, including the concepts and techniques that are associated with each step Chapter 2 Individual issues that are particularly important in citation network analysis are then scrutinized namely field delineation and data sources for citation analysis Chapter 3 disambiguation of names and references Chapter 4 and visualization of citation networks Chapter 5 Sufficient technical detail is provided in each chapter so the book can serve as a practical how to guide to conducting citation network analysis and visualization studies While the discussion of most of the topics in this book applies to all types of citation analysis the structure of the text and the details of procedures examples and tools covered here are geared to citation network analysis rather than evaluative citation analysis This conscious choice was based on the authors observation that compared to evaluative citation analysis citation network analysis has not been covered nearly as well by dedicated books despite the fact that it has not been subject to nearly as much severe criticism and has been substantially enriched in recent years with new theory and techniques from research areas such as network science social network analysis or information visualization
