BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The biosphere is the thin layer of land, air and water around the earth's surface that supports life. The abiotic, or non-living, portion of each ecosystem in the biosphere includes the flow of energy, nutrients, water, and gases and the concentrations of organic and inorganic substances in the environment. The biotic, or living, portion includes organisms based on their methods of acquiring energy: the primary producers, largely green plants; the consumers, which include all the animals; and the decomposers, which include the microorganisms that break down the remains of plants and animals into simpler components for recycling in the biosphere.

Ecological pyramids are a graphical representation in the shape of a pyramid to show the feeding relationship of groups of organisms, and the flow of energy or biomass through the different trophic levels in a given ecosystem.

Poison Powder Gregory S. Wilson,2023-04-01 In 1975 workers at Life Science Products a small makeshift pesticide factory in Hopewell Virginia became ill after exposure to Kepone the brand name for the pesticide chlordecone They made the poison under contract for a much larger Hopewell company Allied Chemical Life Science workers had been breathing in the dust for more than a year Ingestion of the chemical made their bodies seize and shake News of ill workers eventually led to the discovery of widespread environmental contamination of the nearby James River and the landscape of the small working class city Not only had Life Science dumped the chemical but so had Allied when the company manufactured it in the 1960s and early 1970s The resulting toxic impact was not only on the city of Hopewell but also on the faraway fields where Kepone was used as an insecticide Aspects of this environmental tragedy are all too common corporate avarice ignorance and regulatory failure combined with race and geography to determine toxicity and shape the response But the Kepone story also contains some surprising medical legal and political moments amid the disaster With Poison Powder Gregory S Wilson explores the conditions that put the Kepone factory and the workers there in the first place and the effects of the poison on the people and natural world long after 1975 Although the manufacture and use of Kepone is now banned by the Environmental Protection Agency organochlorines have long half lives and these toxic compounds and their residues still remain in the environment

Africa's Lions Haroon Bhorat,Finn Tarp,2016-11-08 Examining the economic forces that will shape Africa s future Africa s Lions examines the economic growth experiences of six fast growing and or economically dominant African countries Expert African researchers offer unique perspectives into the challenges and issues in Ethiopia Ghana Kenya Mozambique Nigeria and South Africa Despite a growing body of research on African economies very little has focused on the relationship between economic growth and employment outcomes at the detailed country level A lack of empirical data has deprived policymakers of a robust evidence base on which to make informed decisions By harnessing country level household firm and national accounts data together with existing analytical country research the authors have attempted to bridge this gap The growth of the global working age population to 2030 will be driven primarily by Africa which means that the relationship between growth and employment should be understood within the context of each country s projected demographic challenge and the associated implications for employment growth A better understanding of the structure of each country s workforce and the resulting implications for human capital development the vulnerably employed and the working poor will be critical to informing the development policy agenda As a group the six countries profiled in Africa s Lions will largely shape the continent s future Each country chapter focuses on the complex interactions between economic growth and employment outcomes within the individual Africa s Lions context

Policing Digital Crime Robin Bryant,2016-04-22 By its very nature digital crime may present a number of specific detection and investigative challenges The use of steganography to hide child abuse images for example can pose the kind of technical and legislative problems inconceivable just two decades ago The volatile nature of much digital evidence can also pose problems particularly in terms of the actions of the first officer on the scene There are also concerns over the depth of understanding that generic police investigators may have concerning the possible value or even existence of digitally based evidence Furthermore although it is perhaps a cliché to claim that digital crime and cybercrime in particular respects no national boundaries it is certainly the case that a significant proportion of investigations are likely to involve multinational cooperation with all the complexities that follow from this This groundbreaking volume offers a theoretical perspective on the policing of digital crime in the western world Using numerous case study examples to illustrate the theoretical material introduced this volume examine the

organisational context for policing digital crime as well as crime prevention and detection This work is a must read for all academics police practitioners and investigators working in the field of digital crime Learning in Later Life Trish Hafford-Letchfield, 2016-06-17 Within the UK and Europe government legislation and policies concerned with demography have asserted a paradigmatic shift towards the increased engagement of older people with public services The philosophy of user involvement and co production within these contexts has become integral to finding ways in which to improve the wellbeing of older people and their experiences of ageing well Whilst this area has been steadily emerging within the educational field in relation to the lifelong learning of older people there has been a relative under theorization and a lack of empirical research however into the lifelong learning needs opportunities and experiences of those older people using social care who are typically marginalized from these debates and developments This book address this gap by paying specific attention to examining what opportunities might be present within care services and public services in general for older people using social care to capitalize on the skills and knowledge they might need to achieve more person centred support Through developing a debate and argument for the convergence of the lifelong learning agenda with social policy and social care its core argument focusses on the challenge of sustainability of the care and support of older people The author explores how social care could engage more meaningfully with concepts such as social capital and the challenges associated with achieving a genuine co productive approach towards the quality of experience of older people using social care This book will be an essential read for professionals working with older people in health and social care as well as those engaged with gerontology and ageing studies in education and practice Mobile Technologies for Activity-Travel Data Collection and Analysis Rasouli, Soora, Timmermans, Harry, 2014-06-30 This book concentrates on one particular and fast growing application of mobile technologies data acquisition for the tourism industry providing travel agents visitors and hosts with the most advanced data mining methods empirical research findings and computational analysis techniques necessary to compete effectively in the global tourism industry Provided by publisher Johnstone Triangle Norman Reid, 2021-01-18 Chemistry is often seen as a difficult subject to understand This book focusses on the triangle model that Alex H Johnstone developed in the early 1980s Originally conceived in the context of making chemistry more accessible to a wider range of learners the model has been applied in almost every area of education in chemistry at all stages of learning In looking at why chemistry is difficult there are two central questions Firstly does the problem relate to the nature of chemistry and secondly does it relate to the way humans gain understanding Both were found to be important and the answers to the two question were found to be connected The triangle model arose from sustained research into human learning The central finding from research is the critical role of working memory and the model rationalises so much evidence from chemistry education research as well as the repeated experiences of teachers of chemistry at all levels In order to understand chemistry it is essential to develop sound mental models of molecular reality It generates major implications for the way a chemistry curriculum should be constructed and the processes of teaching and learning in chemistry when the goal is focussed on understanding the key ideas Some of these implications are developed and pointers offered to more successful ways forward The power of the Johnstone Triangle lies in the way it offers clear directions for all involved in chemistry education It is hoped that this book will prove helpful to all involved in sharing the exciting story of the way humans have come to understand the molecular world one of the great examples of great human endeavour Prometheus Reimagined Albert C. Lin, 2013-10-30 A call for a more thoughtful and democratic approach to technology policy and regulation Conducting Terrorism Field Research Adam Dolnik, 2013 This book offers a detailed and practically oriented guide to the challenges of conducting terrorist fieldwork The past decade has seen an explosion of research into terrorism However field research on terrorism has traditionally been surrounded by many myths and has been called anything from necessary and crucial to dangerous unethical and impossible While there is an increasing interest among terrorism specialists in conducting such research there is no single volume providing prospective field researchers with a guideline to such work Conducting Terrorism Field Research aims to fill this gap and offers a collection of articles from experienced authors representing different risk groups disciplines methodological approaches regional specializations and other context specific aspects Each contributor provides a road map to their own research describing planning and preparation phases the formalities involved in getting into conflict zones and gaining access to sources The end product is a how to guide to field research on terrorism which will be of much value to terrorism experts and novices alike This book will be of much interest to students and researchers of terrorism studies war and conflict studies criminology IR and security studies Psychopathology William J. scholars of writing are offered a common language and a shared narrative a story that speaks to the inherent purpose of the writing class and to what is at stake in teaching writing in the twenty first century This book is a timely and historically significant contribution to the field and will be of major interest to scholars and administrators in writing studies rhetoric composition and linguistics as well as philosophers and those exploring ethics
