Federal Land Management Agencies Appropriations And Revenues Crs Reports:

Federal Land Management Agencies: Appropriations and Revenues Congressional Research Service, 2014-12-10 A perennial focus for Congress is on appropriations for management of federal lands and resources. Issues include the purposes for which appropriations are used, factors influencing their distribution among states, and the extent to which appropriations are used on nonfederal lands. Congress also continues to be interested in the revenues derived from federal lands and resources. Questions relate to the amount of revenue generated on federal lands, the sources of revenue, and factors affecting the variation among states in the amount and type of revenue generated. Approximately 95% of federal lands are managed by four agencies: the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS), National Park Service (NPS), and Forest Service (FS). Their FY2013 appropriations were $2,048.1 million for BLM, $2,591.6 million for FWS, $3,305.8 million for NPS, and $5,709.8 million for FS. Of these totals, FS received the largest discretionary appropriation, $4,934.7 million, while FWS had the highest mandatory appropriation, $1,053.1 million. The largest discretionary appropriation for FS was for Wildland Fire Management; for the other three agencies, it was the main operations account. The agencies have many sources of mandatory appropriations, some of which are common among them and across states (e.g., recreation fees), while others are unique to one agency or allocated to one state. Another distinction concerns the portion of appropriations used on lands not managed by the agencies, ranging from little in the case of BLM to roughly two thirds for FWS. Revenue collections during FY2013 differed among the agencies: $18.9 million for FWS, $223.6 million for FS, $333.4 million for NPS, and $525.0 million for BLM. Depending on the agency and state, sources of revenue might include land sales, grazing, timber, hardrock, minerals, recreation, and rights of way. Influencing the allocation of appropriations among states and the amount of revenue collected in each state were the acreage of federal land, land resources, conditions, availability, uses, and impacts, demographics, fire activity, and other factors. BLM, FWS, NPS, and FS also receive federal lands highway funds from the Federal Highway Administration. A total of $573.8 million in highway funding for federal lands was distributed in FY2013, with almost half ($280.6 million) going to NPS and another two fifths ($227.2 million) to state Programming Decisions Committees, bodies that make some project funding decisions. The remainder went to FWS ($36.5 million), FS ($19.8 million), and BLM ($9.6 million). Distributions among states ranged from less than $0.1 million to $86.5 million. The Payments in Lieu of Taxes program and FS Payments to States program compensate local governments for the presence of federally owned land. PILT applies to many types of federal lands, and payments are calculated under a formula. The total PILT payment in FY2013 was $401.8 million, with state totals ranging from $0 to $41.4 million for California. The FS Payments to States program, which includes Secure Rural Schools (SRS) payments, applies to counties with national forest lands and certain BLM forested lands. Payments are based on either historic or current revenue generated on the lands and other considerations. FY2013 payments to states totaled $312.5 million, ranging from less than $0.1 million to $97.1 million for Oregon. Progress in Environmental Research Irma C. Willis, 2007 The environment consists of the surroundings in which an organism operates including air water land natural resources flora fauna humans and their interrelation It is this environment which is both so valuable on the one hand and so endangered on the other And it is people which are by and large ruining the environment both for themselves and for all other organisms This book presents important new research on a wide variety of topics in this field Federal Land Management Samuel T. Prescott, 2003 Federal land ownership and management are of perennial interest to Congress This book describes the constitutional authority for federal land ownership It provides the history of federal land acquisition and disposal and describes the federal land management agency jurisdictions based on congressional authorities to reserve or withdraw lands from disposal Included in the book are also backgrounds on the various agencies that administer and care for the 655 million acres of federal land Federal Land Management Agencies Pamela Baldwin, 2005 The federal government owns 655 million acres 29% of the nearly 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States Four agencies administer 628 million acres 96% of this land the Forest Service in the Department of Agriculture The Bureau of Land Management Fish and Wildlife Service and National Park Service all in the Department of the Interior The majority of these lands are in the West They generate revenues for the US Treasury some of which are shared with states and localities These agencies receive funding from annual appropriations laws and from trust funds and special accounts including the Land and Water Conservation Fund The lands administered by the four agencies are managed for a variety of purposes primarily related to conservation preservation and development of natural resources Yet each of these agencies has distinct responsibilities for the lands and resource it administers This new book provides an overview of how federal lands and resources are managed the agencies that manage the lands the authorities under which these lands are managed and some of the issues associated with federal land management The book is divided into nine chapters In the conclusion of the book is an appendix of acronyms used in the text and another defining selected terms used in the report American Natural Resources Carrie D. Slovic, 2006 Natural resources such as coal gold oil fertile soil bountiful wildlife and forests form a major part of America's strength In the twenty first century America is now faced with new questions of how to manage maintain and better exploit these resources There are four federal departments that manage the vast majority of America's natural resources the Forest Service in the Department of Agriculture the Bureau of Land Management the Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Park Service This book examines how these agencies and others handle American natural resources Oversight on the Forest Service's Proposed Changes in the Administrative Appeals Process United States.
