

Hurricanes: Nature's Wildest Storms

By Erin Egan

You may already know that hurricanes are major tropical storms that can cause devastating waves, wind, and rain. They happen during "Hurricane Season," which is from June 1st until November 30th in the Atlantic Ocean and from May 15th until November 30th in the Pacific Ocean. A hurricane that forms in the Atlantic Ocean begins as tropical disturbance. This is a large area of windy thunderstorms that forms over the warm ocean, near the equator. When the storms grow larger, rains and wind pick up, and the "disturbance" can develop into a full-fledged hurricane.

Stages of a Hurricane: Simple Storms Grow Into Giants

A storm progresses through four different stages before it is actually considered a hurricane. First is a tropical disturbance, which has thunderstorms and rotating winds, or what scientists call cyclonic circulation. Next is a tropical depression, which is similar to a tropical disturbance, but has winds between 23 and 39 miles per hour. A tropical storm is the next level, which has stronger wind speeds between 40 and 73 miles per hour. Once winds reach 74 miles per hour, the storm is officially classified as a hurricane. The winds pick up energy from the warm surface ocean water.

Hurricanes rotate counterclockwise in the Northern Hemisphere and clockwise in the Southern Hemisphere. Hurricanes can vary in size and can grow to have a diameter of up to 600 miles, which is longer than the entire state of Florida!

As a hurricane crosses over land, it begins to dissipate, or break apart and reduce in strength. This is because it is no longer over the warm ocean water that it needs for energy. At this point, a hurricane can still cause a lot of damage because of high winds, rain, and flooding, but unless it makes its way back over the open ocean, it is downgraded from a hurricane back to a tropical storm.

desertification toxic pollution species extinctions drought and deforestation to name just a few loom close behind The scope of the most pressing environmental problems far exceeds the capacity of individual nation states much less smaller political entities To compound these problems economic globalization the growth of non governmental activist groups and the accelerating flow of information have fundamentally transformed the geopolitical landscape Despite the new urgency of these challenges however they are not without historical precedent As this book shows nation states have long sought agreements to manage migratory wildlife just as they have negotiated conventions governing the exploitation of rivers and other bodies of water Similarly nation states have long attempted to control resources beyond their borders to impose their standards of proper environmental exploitation on others and to draw on expertise developed elsewhere to cope with environmental problems at home This collection examines this little understood history providing case studies and context to inform ongoing debates

The Feeling of Transcendence, an Experience of God? Louis Roy, 2021-04-15 In this book Louis Roy takes account of the fact that in the last fifty years numerous people in the secularized West have responded yes to surveys that asked Are you aware of having had an experience during which you felt in the presence of a dimension or a reality very different from ordinary human life Are such experiences mere illusions Some thinkers like Feuerbach and Freud believed so Are such experiences encounters with God Karl Barth a great Protestant theologian did not think much of their worth On this issue psychologists and theologians are divided Roy argues that those experiences are valid that they possess a real potential and that they can open their recipients to a genuine wisdom He reports on eight narratives spells out their constitutive elements classifies them into four categories aesthetic ontological ethical and interpersonal and suggests criteria to assess their concrete authenticity Thus this book will appeal to educated readers interested in spirituality philosophy of religion psychology literature theology and pastoral ministry
