The Economics of Tax Policy Alan J. Auerbach, Kent Andrew Smetters, 2017 Debates about the optimal structure for tax policies and tax rates hardly cease among public policy or academic audiences These have only grown more heated in the United States as the gap between incomes of the wealthiest 1 percent and the rest of the population continue to diverge Tax research perhaps has not fully kept pace with the relentless demand of various interests to adjust tax policy Nonetheless specialists in the economics of tax policy in recent years have profited from advances in economic theory econometric measurements and data quality and access that are beginning to allow a greater consensus on what are the real effects of tax policy and how government levies affect individuals and businesses The volume edited by Professors Auerbach and Smetters represents an attempt to reduce the lag between the conduct of research on tax issues and its transmission to a broader public The contributions would explore highly topical issues such as the effects of income tax changes on economic growth the potential effects of capping certain tax expenditures the economics of adjusted business tax policy and environmental tax options Other essays would investigate perennially important themes such as the conduct of tax administration the growing role of the tax system on education policy tax policy toward low income families capital gains and estate taxation and tax policy for retirement savings A final paper would examine three different options for fundamental tax reform

Special Features of the UN Model Convention Anna Binder, Viktoria Wöhrer, 2019-10-01 Detailed research on the UN Model Convention's unique features The UN Model Convention has a significant influence on international tax treaty practice and is especially used by emerging and developing countries as a starting point for treaty negotiations Driven by the aim to achieve consistency in the international tax treaty practice the structure and content is to a large extent similar in the UN Model and the OECD Model However whereas the OECD has historically focused its efforts on issues mainly relevant for developed countries the UN Tax Committee has continuously attempted to specifically take into account tax treaty policies for developing countries when drafting and amending the UN Model Convention Compared to the OECD Model Convention the UN Model Convention aims at giving more weight to the source principle Popular examples are the PE definition in the UN Model which provides for a lower threshold than Article 5 of the OECD Model or Article 12A on Fees for Technical Services which has been introduced with the latest amendment of the UN Model Convention 2017 and allows for a withholding tax to be levied on payments to non residents when the payer of the fee is a resident of that contracting State irrespective of where the services are provided Interestingly in the discussions of the tax challenges arising from the digitalization of the economy the OECD and the G20 are also exploring options to allocate more taxing rights to the jurisdiction of the customer and or user i e the market jurisdictions As this has traditionally been the focus of the UN Model Convention its unique features and developing countries practices could be taken into account when exploring new nexus rules that are not constrained by the physical presence requirement This book contains the master's theses of the full time LL M program 2018 2019 for which Special Features of the UN Model Convention has been chosen as the general topic With this book the authors and editors do not aim at discussing each article of the UN Model Convention but rather focus on the unique features of the UN Model Convention which are explored in detail This is supplemented with an evaluation of the function and relevance of the UN Tax Committee in the international tax policy discussion and with an analysis of the influences of the OECD s BEPS project on the UN Model
