DESIGN-BUILD

Shifting Risks and Transactions from the Client to the Contractor

The popularity and use of design-build have risen rapidly over the last decade.

Considered somewhat "radical" twenty-five years ago, it is now the delivery method for nearly half of the country's construction projects. The increased use of design-build results from a growing number of clients who feel this method offers the best way to mitigate the risks. While construction will always be fraught with challenges, they see this method as a structure that will eliminate some of the common problems they face on projects.
